NATION AWAITS RESULT OF ELECTION

EXPECT G. O. P. WILL CONTROL BOTH HOUSES

Only Landslide for Smith Could Give Democrats Majority in Congress
REPUBLICANS TO GAIN
Several Democratic Senators and Congressman Are Facing Defeat

(This is the sixth of a series of dispatches giving the results of a personal observation of the political situation in 20 states.)

Congress is very likely to be Republican in both houses by a comfortable majority. This means a great deal of the future of legislation for while the Republican party is divided on many measures and policies the chief difficulty in the last four years has been the narrow margin which the majority party has had.

The election of Herbert Hoover even by a small margin of electoral votes is likely to mean the defeat of several Democratic senators and members of congress. This is not uniformly the prospect in any one section of the country, but it is quite customary for Democrats to fare badly in presidential years of Republican success and only rarely are there candidates who can overcome the opposition tide. Senator Walsh of Massachusetts may pull through this year irrespective of the close vote for president, but the Hoover tide in Maryland is very likely to affect adversely the fortunes of Senator Bruce, Democrat. So also are Senator Bayard of Delaware and Senator Neely of West Virginia, both Democrats, having a hard time though indications are that Mr. Neely will squeeze in.

In New York state the defeat of Senator Copeland is not expected because of the strong Smith wave but if Smith wins the state only by a close margin he is not likely to pull Copeland through to victory too.

RACE IN INDIANA

There is a close race in Indiana with Senator Robinson, Republican, likely to win over Albert Stump, in Minnesota where a coalition has been formed between the Farmer-Labor and the Democratic party, Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, will be re-elected. Missouri is a toss-up with Charles M. Hay, Democrat.

Byrd who arrived with 14 members of his South Polar expedition. The party came on the whaler Larsen and will await the arrival of the bark City of New York and the steamship Eleanor Bolling bringing the other members of the expedition.

Moncada Is Elected In Nicaragua

Liberal Appears to Be Victor Over Benard in Presidency Race

Managua, Nicaragua — (P)—The people of Nicaragua have elected General Jose Maria Moncada president of the republic by a large majority. Latest returns Monday indicated that it might reach 25,000. The returns from 275 precincts out of a total of 432 gave the Liberal leader 56,434, as against 37,080 for the conservative—an actual majority thus far of 19,354.

Bluefields, on the Mosquito coast, which is being reported Liberal, has not yet been counted. The indications are that the Conservatives will control the next congress, although insufficient returns have been received to form a trustworthy estimate. The election was conducted under American supervision and United States marines and Nicaraguan national guardsmen were out in force to prevent disorders. Throughout the day marine airplanes flew over the entire country and communicated by panels laid on the ground with virtually every one of the 432 precincts. Each plane carried machine guns and bombs in readiness to disperse outlaws should they appear.

Reports from all parts of the country said that there had been no disorder. Advice from the northern area where General Augustino Sandino had opposed the marines for a long time showed a heavy vote cast in an orderly manner.

STATE AFFAIRS ARE AT CRISIS--KOHLER

Nominee for Governorship Declares "Time Has Come for a Change"

Kohler — (P)—In a pre-election statement issued Monday, Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee for governor, uttered a belief that "the affairs of this state are at a crisis" and gave the opinion that "the time has come for a change and that we shall get good government only as we demand it."

"The affairs of this state are at a crisis," the statement read. "The energy which once animated our government has been spent and the vision has departed."

"We have too many politicians who use as catch phrases the rallying cries of bygone times, and whose idea of public service is to get and hold office. They have grown desperate in this campaign as they saw their power threatened by a new and vital movement, and in their desperation they have used every falsehood and every trick to confuse the people."

"I am certain that the majority of Wisconsin people have not been deceived. There seems to be a general realization that the time has come as we demand it."

Among the important interests at this time, Mr. Kohler listed "the schools, the highway system, relief of the economic disadvantage under which our farm population labors, control of public utilities, conservation of natural resources, reforestation, waterways and a children's code."

SEEK IDENTITY OF MAN DEAD IN RACINE JAIL

Racine — (P)—Police here were seeking to establish the identity of a man, about 40 years old, who was found dead in a cell at Central police station Monday morning. The man was taken to the station Saturday night by a motorist who found him asleep in his car. At the time he was locked up as a drunk. Paint-spattered shoes and an unfastened application for renewal of veterans' insurance are the only clues to the man's identity.

ROBINSON BACK HOME AFTER LONG CAMPAIGN

Little Rock, Ark. — (P)—Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic vice presidential candidate, returned to his home city Monday from one of the longest campaign tours ever made by a political candidate. He and Mrs. Robinson remained in their private home for the night and the greetings of a formal reception committee later in the morning.

COLLYER AND TUCKER DIE IN PLANE CRASH

Noted Airmen Meet Death When Yankee Doodle Hits Mountain Cliff

Prescott, Ariz. — (P)—A famed triumvirate of the air—two noted air speedsters and a fleet little champion of the upper reaches—has written its last entry on the pages of aviation history in a bold record challenge which ended abruptly against a sheer Arizona mountain cliff.

Death penned the final report of the courageous attempt of Captain C. B. D. Collyer to flash to a new west-to-east transcontinental non-stop record in the trim Yankee Doodle, with Harry Tucker, the plane's owner, riding as a passenger.

The broken bodies of the two men, Collyer a co-holder of the around-the-world travel record and Tucker a record holder with his proud little Yankee Doodle, of both east-west and west-east transcontinental records, were brought into Prescott on pack burros Monday. Letters in their pockets were needed to establish the men's identities.

Nothing was left to salvage, indeed hardly enough was left to identify, of the Lockheed-Vega which thundered into the side of Crook canyon, 23 miles south of here, Saturday night at a terrific clip.

RAIN AND MOTOR TROUBLE

Mist and rain, the nemesis of many another birdman, overtook the plane in a most dangerous part of its route and together with motor trouble undoubtedly caused the crash. Collyer and Tucker apparently died instantly, though there was much effort to use their parachutes to desert their pined ship. Their parachutes were open, but landing flares had been released, leading to the supposition they sought nearly to the end to bring the Yankee Doodle down to an undamaged landing.

In the face of unfavorable weather reports the craft took off from Mines Field, Los Angeles, at 3:28, Saturday afternoon on an attempted non-stop flight to New York, which the owner announced also was to be an attempt.

MILWAUKEE PILOT IS KILLED AS SHIP FALLS

Sheboygan — (P)—Al Ferko of Milwaukee, pilot and lone occupant of his Waco 10 biplane, was killed Monday when his plane went into a tail spin followed by a nose dive and crashed into a plowed field about two miles south of the Sheboygan airport. The victim had been visiting relatives here for the past few days and had stored his plane at the local airport. Monday he was to have left for Milwaukee. Attendees at the field said he took off from the airport at 11 o'clock Monday morning and climbed to an altitude of about 200 feet when his plane sputtered and finally dropped into a tail spin.

BOMB WAUKESHA HOME IN ADLER STRIKE WAR

Waukesha — (P)—Waukesha authorities were confronted with another mystery early Sunday by the third bomb in Waukesha since the inception of the labor difficulty at the Adler and Sons Clothing company plant here.

Six persons were implicated by the blast and the home of J. E. Van Alstine, which houses two Adler employees, was partially wrecked by the explosion. Authorities Monday were at a loss for tangible clues to the perpetrators of the bombing.

GOOD WEATHER SEEN FOR ELECTION DAY

Milwaukee — (P)—"Good election weather" was the prediction for the state of Wisconsin by the federal weather bureau here Monday. The bureau reported that generally fair weather would prevail throughout the country but that Wisconsin will experience some cloudiness but no rain and by a moderate temperature. The upper Michigan peninsula however, may expect showers, the bureau stated.

ROBINSON BACK HOME AFTER LONG CAMPAIGN

Little Rock, Ark. — (P)—Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic vice presidential candidate, returned to his home city Monday from one of the longest campaign tours ever made by a political candidate. He and Mrs. Robinson remained in their private home for the night and the greetings of a formal reception committee later in the morning.

Smith Broadcasts Plea For Western Farm Vote

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York — (P)—Appealing for support from the agricultural west, Governor Smith Monday delivered another blow at Herbert Hoover's attitude on the farm question and declared a solution of this long vexing problem could be accomplished in but one way—by voting for the Democratic national ticket tomorrow.

Speaking over a coast-to-coast radio hookup, the Democratic presidential nominee again affirmed his belief that Tuesday's election would return him victorious in this campaign of campaigns and asserted the "industrial east joins with the agricultural west in its desire for a restoration of Democratic government."

"I believe that Tuesday will bring a great Democratic victory," the governor said, "and I assure you that victory in turn will bring a solution of the agricultural problem that will restore prosperity to the farm and promote the welfare of the entire country."

The governor said he agreed with former Governor Lowden and Senator Norris, Republican Independent of Nebraska, that there can never be any satisfactory solution of the farm problem unless it is based upon an effective control of the sale of exportable surpluses with the cost imposed upon commodities benefited.

He said this was the "great fundamental, underlying principle for farm relief upon which Mr. Hoover and I differ absolutely."

Referring to Mr. Hoover's reference to the Democratic farm program as state Socialism, the governor said: "You and I and your leaders and all who have been struggling in your behalf—all of us together—are transferred to the Socialist party because we wish the government in your behalf to follow the same principle adopted in the federal emergency system for the protection of money and credit."

Governor Smith's last pre-election radio speech will be delivered from the studio of the National Broadcasting company at 10 o'clock Monday evening and will be of one hour's duration.

The governor had not definitely decided Monday just where he would watch the returns come in, Tuesday, but it is generally expected he will surround himself with members of his family and receive the figures in his suite at the Biltmore hotel.

EBEN R. MINAHAN, NOTED GREEN BAY LAWYER, IS DEAD

Prominent Attorney Succumbs on Train Sunday Night from Meningitis

Eben R. Minahan, 46, prominent Green Bay attorney and only son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Minahan, died at 11 o'clock Sunday night on a Chicago & Northwestern passenger train on which he was being brought home from the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn. Death was due to cerebral meningitis with which he had been ill for two weeks.

Mr. Minahan went to Rochester Oct. 25, and last Friday his condition was reported as being extremely critical. On Saturday he rallied to a considerable extent, and although little hope was held out for his recovery it was decided to remove him to his home. Accompanied by members of his family he left Rochester Sunday morning, transferring at Milwaukee to a special car on train No. 111 of the Northwestern, due in Green Bay at 11 p. m. While he spoke with difficulty, he appeared to be in the best of spirits, according to relatives, and inquired about a football game which had been played on Saturday. Shortly after leaving Manitowoc, however, he suffered a relapse and sank rapidly, death coming within a half hour.

Funeral services will be held from the home at 621 S. Quincy-st. at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. J. Boyle, Democrat.

Extra Editions and Screen Will Carry Election Story

The great appeal to the American electorate has been completed; the spellbinders have left the stage and all that remains is for the jury of 40,000,000 voters to turn in the verdict.

This stupendous verdict will be opened tomorrow night and in every city and hamlet in the United States millions upon millions will be waiting to learn it. The Post-Crescent has made elaborate preparations to give its readers and friends the most complete report of the national, state and local elections that it is possible to compile.

Extra editions will be printed at midnight Tuesday and at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning to give the latest and most complete details available at these hours, and such other extra editions will be printed as circumstances require.

In addition the Post-Crescent will flash election reports on a huge screen across the street from The Post-bldg. Returns from national, state and county elections will be shown. The first returns probably will be flashed as early as 7:30 and will continue during the night.

Election extras will be offered in Appleton and surrounding cities and villages. Trucks and automobile will deliver the extras to Kaukauna, Little Chute, Black Creek, Seymour, Hortonville, Kimberly, Shiocton, Dale, Combined Locks, Medina, New London, Clintonville, Waupun, Weyauwega, Fremont and Nanawa. No newspaper in Wisconsin has made more careful preparations for a complete coverage of elections than the Post-Crescent. The extra and regular editions will carry tabular reports of the election in Outagamie co., reports from neighboring counties, the congressional contest and, most complete of all, the national race.

RECORD VOTE IS FORECAST IN WISCONSIN

Million Voters May Go to Polls in State to Register Their Choice

(By the Associated Press)

By a vote expected to surpass all past records, Wisconsin Tuesday will help elect the next president of the United States, select its representatives in the state and national legislature and decide who shall guide the destinies of the commonwealth during the next biennium. In 2,743 voting precincts in the 71 counties of the state the men and women voters will write their verdict.

Upon the outcome hangs the answer to whether Herbert Hoover, Republican, or Alfred E. Smith, Democrat gains the state's 13 electoral votes in their quest of the presidency; Walter J. Kohler, Republican, or Albert G. Schmedeman, becomes the twenty-sixth governor of Wisconsin and Senator LaFollette or State Senator William H. Markham represents the state in the United States senate during the next six years.

Those are the major offices upon which all the state's citizens are expected to record their choice on the ballot. Minor state offices will be filled, representatives in the lower house of congress chosen by each of the 11 congressional districts and a new state legislature elected, with the exception of 17 holdover state senators. Each county will elect its officers for the next two years.

Between 6 o'clock Tuesday morning and 8 o'clock in the evening, an electorate estimated all the way from 850,000 to 1,000,000 will vote in Wisconsin. Politicians were expecting new high record for the state.

An air of confidence of the outcome pervaded the national and state headquarters of the two parties, Otto Labadie, state chairman of the Democratic central committee, visualized Smith and Schmedeman carrying the state, while Stephen J. McMahon and George Gilkey, managers for Hoover and Kohler, expressed confidence that the normal Republican majority would carry the day for them.

The state election presents the following lineup of the two parties:
Governor—Walter J. Kohler, Republican and Albert G. Schmedeman, Democrat.

Attorney General—John W. Reynolds, Progressive Republican; John J. Boyle, Democrat.

Secretary of State—Theodore Dammann, Progressive Republican; Charles Mulberger, Democrat.

State Treasurer—Solomon Levitan, Progressive Republican; Robert K. Henry, Democrat.

DEADWOOD DICK RIDES AGAIN--ON AIRPLANE

Chicago — (P)—Flying down from the clouds as nonchalantly as he rode a western pony in his frontier days, Deadwood Dick reached Chicago Monday morning as another stop on his first airplane trip in observance of his 82nd birthday anniversary.

The veteran plainsman, whose real name is Richard W. Clark, came to Chicago from Milwaukee where he spent the night after flying from St. Paul Sunday. He was greeted by a battery of photographers and posed smilingly in his broad trimmed shoulders beneath which his long hair flowed.

With Walter Halley, Deadwood Dick, hero of fact and fiction, is headed for Washington to greet the president and thank him for his visit to Deadwood Dick's domain, the Black Hills of South Dakota, last year. Halley is president of the company owning the plane in which the plainsman is making the trip.

Pillsbury, prominent for years in Republican politics and superintendent of a Sunday school in this city, announced he would resign as secretary of state and chairman of the Republican committee.

Hoover Will Urge All To Go To Polls

Candidate Will Make Non-Partisan Appeal from Palo Alto Home

Associated Press Staff Writer
Hoover Train, Enroute to Palo Alto, Calif. — (P)—Herbert Hoover approached the end of his last campaign trip Monday with his confidence in Republican victory strengthened by the evidences of enthusiasm which he has found along the Atlantic to the Pacific coast.

After his arrival at his home in Palo Alto, he will deliver his last message of the campaign before the election Tuesday.

This will be a non-partisan appeal to the voters to exercise their right of citizenship at the polls. It will be delivered from his study at 6:35, Pacific coast time, and will be broadcast over a nation-wide chain of radio stations.

Hoover made his last purely political speech at Pueblo, Colo., Saturday night, the fourth since he left his general headquarters at Washington last Thursday. In all of these he emphasized prosperity and the importance of the issues before the electorate.

With his campaign ended, the Republican standard-bearer appeared to have laid his cares aside, and Sunday enjoyed his first full day of relaxation in many months. He spent much of the day in his private car reading, and at the points along the line where he greeted large crowds, his manner indicated a freedom from concern over political matters.

He chatted informally with people who crowded around the rear platform of his car, remarking on the "great weather" which he encountered in Utah. The confidence of the candidate was reflected by the other members of his party.

EX-GOVERNOR WILL TALK FOR HOOVER

Chase Osborne of Michigan to Speak at Lawrence Chapel Tonight

Ex-Governor Chase Osborne of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will give an address at 8 o'clock Monday night at Lawrence Memorial chapel in behalf of the candidacy of Herbert C. Hoover, Republican candidate for president. J. P. Frank will introduce Mr. Osborne who comes to Appleton under auspices of the two Republican organizations.

The 12th Field Artillery band, under direction of Edward F. Mumm, will parade the streets before the meeting and will give a short concert before the ex-governor starts his talk. Members of the Lawrence college Hoover club will parade with the band.

The talk by Mr. Osborne will be the public campaign of the two G. O. P. organizations, the Outagamie County Republican club, headed by W. H. Zuchlik, and the Outagamie County Republican precinct committee, headed by A. H. Krueger.

Except for a strenuous drive Tuesday by workers of both organizations to get out a record vote, the campaign will be ended with the talk Monday night.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT IN RACINE ACCIDENT

Racine — (P)—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goodwin, owners of a farm near here, are near death as the result of a head-on crash between their light vegetable truck and a Racine street car Monday morning. The left front wheel of the truck came off, throwing the vehicle into the path of the oncoming car. Mr. Goodwin's back is reported broken, while his wife is said to have suffered internal injuries that will probably prove fatal, according to hospital attendants.

DESTINY OF PARTIES NOW UP TO VOTERS

Hoover and Smith Make Last Appeal to Country Over Radio Tonight

MANY CLOUDED ISSUES

Major Problems Criss-cross Each Other and Lines of Major Parties

BY BYRON PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer

In quieter mood after weeks of agitation and uncertainty, the nation is taking final counsel Monday over its choice of new leadership in Tuesday general election.

The long parade is almost ended. Its greater and lesser figures have turned homeward, leaving in the lap of the voter the tangled threads of an epochal campaign. The untangling of the complex impulses of class, race and religion remains for the more orderly progress of the ballot box.

The final words of the nationwide debate fall to the two men upon whom its responsibilities have rested most heavily. From his home at Palo Alto, Calif., after his trip across the continent from Washington, Mr. Hoover will speak over the radio Monday night to the nation's millions of voters. Two such addresses were decided on by Governor Smith, a noonday talk Monday to the farm country, and a valdictory Monday night, both delivered from a radio studio in New York city.

Otherwise, the day was set aside as a final breathing spell for candidates, political workers and voters, disturbed only by the repercussions which are peculiar to the day before election.

ISSUES STILL DOUBTFUL

The issues of this national contest remain, at the end of the campaign, a patchwork of striking contradictions. The Associated Press has asked hundreds of political leaders, editors, and prominent men and women in business and profession, al life, distributed through all of the states, for information as to the topics of campaign discussion which have been most prominent in their particular localities. The results of this survey, summarized below, show how the issues have been debated by party lines, and across one another.

This summary does not purport to list all of the issues discussed, or to name them in the order of their importance.

RELIGION

Whatever its relative rank in terms of votes, the religious issue has provided the campaign with its most bitter ingredients. Every state in the Union has debated it, sometimes in the accompaniment of egg barrages and legal proceedings. It has been talked of most openly in the south, particularly in Alabama.

Democratic leaders repeatedly have charged that religion was the real force behind the southern bolt from Smith. The Republican national organization has respectfully denied such charges against Governor Smith's Catholicism, and has charged that the Democrats sought to belittle the Quaker faith of Mr. Hoover. These exchanges are continuing, up to the final hour of the campaign.

PROHIBITION

Conspicuous for the first time in a presidential campaign, the prohibition issue is credited by political leaders of both parties with having turned many votes out of their normal channels. Governor Smith's modification plan, upon which he has centered increasing emphasis in recent weeks, has been persistently attacked by prominent Republicans and by many ministers of the gospel and was described by Mr. Hoover himself as tending toward state Socialism.

Upon the comparative extent of the resulting shifts there is no agreement.

HIGH SCHOOL GRID SQUAD COPS TITLE WITH SHAWANO WIN

Ott Men Win Conference Championship by Defeating Shawano 47 to 0

Kaukauna—Coach Elmer Ott's "galloping ghosts" clinched the Northwestern Wisconsin interscholastic conference when they galloped away with Shawano by a 47 to 0 score at the local park Saturday afternoon. Kaukauna started the fracas with a team composed mostly of second string men and before the game was over every man on the squad saw action.

Captain M. Miller played the outstanding game for the locals. He was in every play, figuring all the time and gained many yards by his line plunging. The backfield was helped by the fast charging line that opened holes for the backs to net first downs. Grogan, quarterback, did some classy field work and ran the team in fine style. He intercepted two passes and returned one about 25 yards. Esler's two runs for touchdowns, one for 55 yards and one for 30, featured the game. Luedtke also broke loose on an end run and galloped for six points. The VanLieshout brothers, Luke at guard and Mark at center, worked well together. Mark "Sparky" has another year to play. The game brought out likely prospects for another championship team next year.

For Shawano Kenote, fullback, was practically the whole team. He hit the Kaw line for constant gains of five and ten yards with little assistance from the rest of the team. Kenote held for downs and the best work in the line. Shawano could not stand the hard hitting Kaw line and the locals scored almost at will.

KAW SCORE EARLY
Kaukauna started a line drive with Miller carrying the pigskin to one yard line. Shawano held for three downs and then Grogan scored on a quarterback sneak. Kaukauna started another drive and the quarter ended with the ball on the four yard line. Shawano held for downs and got the ball. In the second quarter Miller broke away for a 20 yard gain and F. Bay made another touchdown. Shortly after Van Lieshout blocked a Shawano punt and Kaukauna scored a safety. Kaukauna made both points after the touchdowns and the half ended 16 to 0.

In the second half Luedtke started the scoring again when he broke away and sped 20 yards through the Shawano line for a touchdown. VanLieshout kicked the extra point. Kaukauna then started another smashing drive and with the help of a working line, brought the ball within scoring distance. Casey scored but missed the extra point. In the third quarter, "Tubby" Hallock, guard, intercepted a pass and ran about 25 yards before being downed. An end around end play was then worked and Main scored again. Esler missed the extra point. A few minutes later he started an end run on the 55 yard line and galloped away to the goal posts, piling the score to 41. Kaukauna kicked off the Shawano after which Esler intercepted a pass and twisted and twirled his way for 30 yards to the zero line. Miller missed the extra point and Coach Ott started to run in the "ponies." Shawano started to make yards, but were stopped by the whistle which ended the game.

VENDING MACHINE BUSINESS GROWS

Expect Business Will Total $40,000,000 in Sales During 1929

New York—(AP)—More than $40,000,000 worth of small package merchandise will be sold automatically in 1929, in the opinion of Albert C. Allen, executive vice-president of the United Cigar Stores of America. He regards the growth in volume and scope of automatic selling as one of the most interesting phases of modern retail distribution.

From a small beginning and a dormant state of nearly a quarter of a century, Mr. Allen said, "the science of selling by machine has suddenly developed into great economic importance and seems likely now to change all our ideas of retail distribution."

"This is largely due to the fact that the idea is fundamentally sound and eliminates the type of salesman who has always been more or less a liability to an organization, that is, the man without selling ability who merely goes through the motions of making change and delivering goods. The leading chain stores of the country do not want this type of man, but the sort who can contribute to the merchandising of their goods."

"There are so many articles, notably the popular brands of cigarettes, which have become so well-known through national advertising, that virtually no selling ability is required to dispose of them. This type of merchandise, which in addition to cigarettes includes such things as razor blades, shaving cream, cough drops and a score of other articles, can be sold with advantage through the vending machine at a saving in distribution cost."

"During recent years much time and money have been spent in solving the problems of production and of advertising. I believe the next few years will see more concentration on the problem of distribution and in this work the vending machine will undoubtedly play a large part."

NEXT LEGISLATURE TO CONSIDER MANY PARK PROPOSALS

Conservation Department Has Heard of Eight to Ten Proposed Parks

Madison—(AP)—While the 1927 legislature considered proposals for several state parks, the next one, which will sit first in January 1929, will probably have many more "park bills," over which to worry. Conservation department heads have heard of eight or ten proposals for state parks and expect that they will be put in the form of bills for the consideration of the law makers, who might buy them for state scenic centers.

Chief among the forthcoming proposals is that offering the Pierce estate, on the Brule river near Superior, for sale to the state. This was the Cedar Island Lodge grounds where President Coolidge spent his summer vacation while B. Nagler, state conservation director, has not been officially advised that the tract is to be offered for sale to the state, he has heard that some such proposal may be made by the Pierce heirs.

It is further proposed that the area in which are located the Blue Mounds, not far from Madison, be made a state park, repurchase to the hills that appear blue from a distance under certain weather conditions, and which are covered with old rock formations. On the plateau of one of them is still the outline of an old race-track grass-covered, on which an enterprising firm sought to establish a picturesque racing center.

Seven bills, noted for its luxurious buildings, with private swimming pool, splendid interiors and great trees was laid before the last legislature almost in full by means of pictures.

Kettle Moraine Park has just been the subject of study by Willam A. Mauthe, chairman of the conservation commission and parties interested in its becoming a state park. Recommendations to the legislature are expected to result from this survey.

The Northern Lakes park, for which the appropriation bill was vetoed by Governor Zimmerman, became a storm center in the closing days of the legislature when State Senator J. H. Carroll, sponsor of the bill told the senate that the governor had intimated that a bribe might be attempted in connection with his signature. The case went without great attention because the legislators were just adjourning when it came up.

Among the areas which the conservation department heads understand are to be offered as state park sites is the Blue Prings tract in Jefferson county near Palmyra. Another site is near Lake Geneva. Then there are the Dunes near Sheboygan, which may be donated to the state. In this event, the conservation department has authority to accept for the state, without legislative action.

Meanwhile action is waiting on the Copper Falls park, near Ashland. The land commission has yet to settle upon lands owned by a power company which might be traded for the park lands which the state wants. The legislature appropriated money for the purchase, out the power company, finding prospective power sites, declined to sell, but offered to trade for lands elsewhere, on which there were equally good power sites. These lands being contributory to the state school fund-the land commission must approve their transfer to the conservation department before they can be traded for the park area lands.

QUESTIONS VIEW OF "INHERENT" POWER

Crownhart Dissents With Opinion from Whole Bench of High Court

Madison—(AP)—In an opinion dissenting from that of the whole bench Justice Charles Crownhart, of the state supreme court disagrees with his contemporaries in the matter of "inherent" jurisdiction.

The court held that it had this power in deciding that it had ample jurisdiction to hear disbarment action against Raymond J. Cannon, Milwaukee attorney, who was involved in the ambulance chasing inquiry. Justice Crownhart's dissenting opinion agrees that the court has jurisdiction, but disagrees on the source of the power.

"If this court has inherent powers then equally so may the other coordinate branches—the executive and the legislative—claim such powers," said the dissenting opinion. "Each and all are above the constitution and have this mystical, undefined power and each department may define such power for itself."

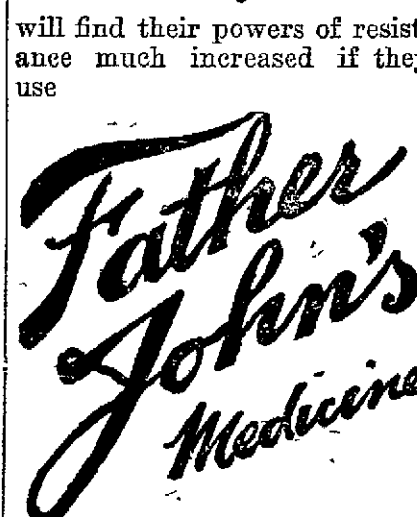

The opinion then quoted opinions of two justices in the famous case between Governor Fashford and governor-elect Barstow in which the court's decision was based on the constitution. Justice Crownhart then said: "I hold that the 'inherent' powers have always been based on 'incidental' and 'implied' powers that are within the constitution."

"I have never understood that this court ever heretofore had asserted powers in excess of its constitutional powers," continued the opinion, which mentioned the disbarment action against Ole A. Stolen former Madison superior court judge. He said that here for the first time in disbarment proceedings the court asserted the inherent power of courts.

Power inherent in courts and arising by implication from the very act (constitution) of creating the court are power that are necessary to the functioning of the court, he said. "But the distinction between inherent powers which transcend the constitution and that which flows from the constitution is a difference between despotic power and limited power. 'I feel certain that the framers of the constitution never contemplated any inherent power nor did the people who adopted the constitution.'"

"For more than five years this court has recognized the power of the legislature to regulate proceedings of attorneys. The present case is based on the statutes of the state. It is in the act of the legislature that created the board of bar examiners and gave this court power to appoint its members, which it did; it was under the same act that charges were preferred by the board; under it we appointed an attorney to prosecute the charges and a referee to take the testimony, at the expense of the state, under an appropriation from the legislature the funds were provided for the prosecution. Even the oath of an attorney is provided by the statute, violation of which we hold is grounds for disbarment."

MONEY ISN'T SCARCE BUT CREDIT IS EASY TO GET BANKERS SAY

Merchants Information Bureau Has Increased Number of Rating Calls

Money isn't scarce in the city, according to Appleton bankers, but people have an increased buying complex and therefore must make use of credit facilities to an extent never known before. Credit opportunities also account for the increased use of credit noted by the bankers.

At the merchants information bureau where credit ratings are made on nearly everyone in the city, an increase in calls has been noted. It has brought about the question whether there is less money in the city thus forcing people to ask for credit. The reply of the bankers seems to settle the question while the information bureau adds that it has found stores investigating credit more closely and in that way increasing the number of calls.

The opportunity of credit when buying cars, fur coats, refrigerators, stoves, and large furniture suites, has forced people to ask for further credit extension when buying such commodities as groceries, clothing, and paying doctor and dentist bills.

EASY PAYMENTS
Payments on the article which was offered for sale on the deferred payment plan are made regularly for it may be taken back for non-payment. And in the meantime the grocer, butcher and doctor have to wait for, as is often the case, they are afraid to clamp down the lid for fear of losing a little business.

But most butchers, grocers and doctors now have learned their lesson, according to bankers, and have resorted to a new method to force collections. Whenever they have bills which are almost uncollectible they ask for a note on the amount and turned it over to the bank for collection. When the bank asks payment it usually comes, for the psychological factor enters into the case and where the small business can't collect, the large one demands attention.

Having been fooled once on the extension of credit, a very close investigation is made of each person to whom credit is to be given thereafter. It is for that reason that department and other retail store requests for information have increased materially. The money still is in circulation, but it's a case of how can it be collected. And forcing collections makes people realize they must gain control of their buying complex.

STAGE And SCREEN

"SHOW PEOPLE" UNIQUE COMEDY OF FILM LIFE

With five of the cleverest comedians in Hollywood in the cast and many famous stars, including Charlie Chaplin, Norma Talmadge, William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks playing themselves, as atmosphere, the new Marion Davis-William Haines co-starring picture, "Show people," now playing at the Fischers Theatre, is, thus far, the most unique comedy of the season.

Miss Davies, through her work in many pictures, has won the title of America's leading comedienne. The role of the little extra girl who comes to Hollywood and attains sudden stardom offers her an excellent opportunity not only to satirize her friends and acquaintances and poke gentle fun at Hollywood, but to develop an entirely new screen character.

Haines, who never went the route of the comedy studies himself, is nevertheless, ideal as the slapstick artist who graduates from the comedy lots in time to save "Peggy," the heroine, from the fate of the "up-stage" actress which as even a Hollywood will admit, is sometimes a quick and fatal one.

Polly Moran, who has stolen scenes from every star in the picture business because of her comedy antics finds herself up against stiff competition with the two leads, but plays her role as Miss Davies maid in her "fritzy" days, in her usual hilarious manner.

Deil Henderson, who played so capably Miss Davies' father in "The Patsy," plays in the present picture, a fake Southern Colonel, who sometimes forgets that it was his father and not himself who fought against Grant. Tenen Holtz is equally good as the movie producer.

Paul Ralli, a screen newcomer, does well with his part as a screen leading man. Ralli has made use of the characteristic gestures of three famous male stars and has exaggerated just enough to make them laughable. King Vidor's direction has welded the work of these artists into a picture, which for true comedy, pathos and interest is hard to surpass.

"MOTHER KNOWS BEST"
Every woman is entitled to love! That is the underlying theme of "Mother Knows Best," Fox Films picture starring Edna Ferber's sensational novel, which comes to the Elite Theatre for a 5 days' engagement starting today. Featured in the picture are Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton.

From the day that the Ferber story swept the country and aroused all sorts of conjecture as to just which mother and daughter were meant by the authoress, film fans have awaited the screen version and their waiting will be well worth the effort when they see the picture.

Directed by John Blystone, who specializes in poignant drama, it carves a new niche in the cinema hall of fame for both Madge Bellamy, who is seen as the daughter, and Louise Dresser, reaching the peak of character portrayal as the mother.

The rise to theatrical success of the daughter guided by the mother, who fights with her and for her always, brings its day of reckoning when the daughter has her first and only romance with a young vaudeville actor. She declares that she is entitled to what every woman is entitled to—love—and accuses the mother of stifling that love.

"Mother Knows Best" is said to be one of the most human documents that ever has been brought to the screen. The supporting company includes Albert Gran, Joy Auburn, Stuart Erwin and Lucien Littlefield.

margin for Smith in which event many Democratic candidates for congress will be lost in the shuttles.

GAINS FOR WETS
The election will tend to upset the wet and dry balance of strength somewhat, as many Republicans will come to congress with a knowledge of wet sentiment in their districts. Thousands of Republicans who for various reasons will decline to vote for Smith have taken pains to point out their distaste for prohibition conditions.

Under the circumstances the true test of the wet and dry argument can not be developed in this election and if any test does come it will be in future sessions when the publicans like Senator Eide of New Jersey and Mrs. Ruth Platt of New York are released from the limitations of the Hoover campaign and can avow openly against their desires for a modification of the Volstead law.

Whichever nominee becomes president it appears certain now that there will be an extra session next spring, which means that the men and women elected next Tuesday will take office much sooner than the case four and eight years ago in presidential years. For this reason the response of congress to public opinion as revealed in the present election is likely to be much more direct and an unusually interesting session is in prospect.

Y. M. C. A. TO RECEIVE RETURNS ON ELECTION

Plans have been completed for receiving election returns at the Y. M. C. A. lobby from 7 to 12 o'clock Tuesday night, according to G. F. Werner, general secretary. F. M. Ingier will announce the returns as they are received by radio and special Western Union telegraph service. He also will compare the election of this year with that of four years ago.

Activities in the association building will continue according to schedule and the public is invited to make a tour of inspection of the building while waiting for returns.

Postpone Meeting
There will be no meeting of Master Builders Tuesday night. The meeting has been dispensed with because of election day.

The plane evidently cracked up between 7:30 and 8 o'clock Saturday evening, though its fate and that of the passenger and pilot who dived and lost was not learned until Sunday afternoon, when searchers pushed into the rugged mountains and found remnants of the ship strewn for a quarter mile down the canyon.

For almost an hour Saturday night, as the first flight of the Yankee Doodle had been placed together by the stories of observers, the famous plane and pilot battled despite a falling motor to clear the 8,000 foot peaks of the Fred W. mountains. At 7:30 its knocking scuttling motor had been heard eight miles south of Prescott.

Some time later the plane circled four times a narrow valley in which the lights of a half dozen miners' cabins twinkled through the rain and mist. The steady drizzle of rain defeated Collyer's attempt to find a landing place.

DESPIRE EFFORT FAILS
As the last circle was made, the plane was only a few hundred feet off the ground. Then Collyer apparently determined to make a last desperate attempt to force his plane over the mountain.

J. B. Tomlinson, manager of the Storm Cloud mines, was the last man to see the plane, which he said came down the canyon sputtering as if the motor was failing and disappeared into the clouds after scraping tree tops. A short time later he heard a crash and a loud explosion.

The ship carried 450 gallons of gasoline at the takeoff, which exploded as it smashed into the cliff with bullet-like speed.

The Yankee Doodle's eastward record was made Aug. 20, with Art Goeller, famed Pacific flier, at the controls. An average pace of 140 miles an hour was maintained.

Appleton Highs Romp Over Manitowoc Eleven 32 To 7

SHIPS UNABLE TO STOP HARD GOING ORANGE

Kunitz Carries Ball Over for Three of Appleton's Touchdowns

Appleton high school's football warriors Saturday afternoon rode roughshod over the Manitowoc grid-ers at Lawrence field and when the final tally was made the score was, Appleton, 32 Manitowoc, 7.

The Ship City football men were outplayed in every department of the game and Appleton gained practically at will by end runs, line smashes, and passes. Crane scored a touchdown in the first and second quarters, Kunitz scored once in the third quarter and twice in the last quarter. Manitowoc's lone marker was tallied early in the final quarter after a series of end runs by Galbraith brought the ball to the five-yard line and Kohls crashed across the goal line.

The shining lights for Appleton were Crane and Kunitz. Both played excellent games and received line backing from their teammates. Kranhold missed both his tries for extra points after the first two touchdowns. He was successful in tries after touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters and missed the final attempt.

Kunitz and Popp were responsible for one touchdown late in the third quarter when Popp carried the ball from Manitowoc's 5-yard line to midfield and Kunitz, with perfect interference, ran 50 yards to the goal line.

Manitowoc frequently threatened to score because of the brilliant playing of Galbraith, left half, who played a whirlwind of a game.

Appleton's line played an excellent game tearing huge gaps in the Manitowoc line on offense and breaking holding solidly for downs when Manitowoc had the ball. Galbraith made much of his gain and end runs. Appleton's passing attack was successful and netted many gains.

FIRST QUARTER
Appleton kicked off to Manitowoc, Kohls taking the ball on Appleton's 35-yard line. A line plunge on the next play netted the Redmen about a yard. A run around left end by Peterson netted another yard. Galbraith punted for Manitowoc and the ball went into play on Manitowoc's 20-yard line. Kunitz took the ball and made 15 yards on a line plunge.

On a spectacular run around left end Crane carried the ball 20 yards to the Manitowoc 48-yard line. Appleton took time out. A series of line plunges by the Orangemen netted about 15 yards. Kunitz, taking the ball, made a long run around left end for 15 yards and he was downed on the Manitowoc 20-yard line. Erick went in for Walker at left end for Manitowoc. Kunitz went in for Rathbuck at right tackle. After several attempts to gain Appleton lost the ball on downs to Manitowoc on the Manitowoc 10-yard line. Manitowoc punted, a poor kick, to Kunitz who was tackled in his tracks on the 25-yard line. A pass thrown by Kunitz was intercepted by Kohls, Manitowoc and on the next play Manitowoc fumbled and Appleton recovered on the Red's 30-yard line. Manitowoc was penalized five yards for being offside. Manitowoc recovered a fumble on the next play. Galbraith took the ball around right end for about 25 yards but the ball was brought back and Manitowoc was tackled 15 yards for holding. The ball rested on the 20-yard line. A poor punt by Galbraith gave Appleton the ball on the Red 13-yard line. Crane was tackled for a five-yard loss on the next play. A forward pass was incomplete. Continuing their aerial attack Crane passed to Popp for 20 yards and the ball was on the 5-yard line. Crane took the ball, scolding around right end on the next play, and made a touchdown. Kranhold failed to make the extra point. Appleton kicked to Manitowoc and Galbraith returned the ball 40 yards to Appleton's 33-yard line. A take play netted the Redmen two yards. After a series of plays Appleton took the ball when

BAYS WIN; KOTAL SCORES 2 COUNTERS
Miners Stage Comeback in Second Half but Are Stopped Short

Green Bay—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers of the National Football league passed to a victory over the Pottsville, Penn., Maroons here Sunday, by a score of 26 to 14. About 6,000 saw the game.

The Packers made three touchdowns in the first half, Kotal making two of them on passes from Red Dunn. The third touchdown was made by Marks on another pass from Dunn. O'Boyle kicked goal for one of the extra points in the first half.

In the third quarter Pottsville staged a comeback and carried the ball from their own 20 yard line across the Packer's goal on a series of plunges with LaTone, Maroon fullback, gaining most of the ground and plunging over for the first Pottsville touchdown from the one-yard line.

At the start of the fourth quarter the Maroons started another march down the field which ended in their second touchdown. LaTone going over again from the four yard line. Budd kicked both times for the extra points.

At this point in the game, the Packers rushed their first string backfield back into the game and in a few minutes Lewellen went over for the fourth Green Bay touchdown on a pass from Dunn. O'Boyle placed for the extra point, making the score 26 to 14.

EAST BAYS DEFEAT SHEBOYGAN, 39-0
Warren Beck Is Star as Green Bay Team Keeps Tie for Conference Lead

Sheboygan—The East Green Bay eleven swamped the Sheboygan team, 39 to 0 in a fast and furious game at Sheboygan, Saturday afternoon. Warren Becker, plucky Green Bay backfield man was the star of the game, having scored two touchdowns. Other touchdowns were executed by Daman, Wayland Becker, Schutte and Shekore.

Sheboygan tried in vain to stop Shekore and Daman who were consistent ground gainers for the Bays. The ball was in Sheboygan territory throughout the last half. The game was filled with spectacular aerial attacks and end plays.

again confident and may score another upset. Michigan has won two of the games and the Navy one.

Shoved definitely out of the championship picture by its second successive one-point defeat by Northwestern, Minnesota's once omnipotent juggernaut will tackle Indiana at Minneapolis. The Hoosiers had a rest Saturday and are in better physical condition than the Gophers.

A bruising fight is anticipated at Evanston where Purdue and Northwestern meet. Both have been defeated, but are out to clinch a first division berth.

Illinois will take a jaunt to Indianapolis to meet Butler, a non-conference opponent and help Butler's new stadium.

The under-dogs of the conference had their big day last Saturday when two of the most startling upsets of the season were engineered. After dropping four straight games for the first time in its history, Michigan did what many of its best teams were unable to do—defeat Illinois. "Dynamite Joe" Gembs provided the only score by a drop kick in the first period. The game, a thriller throughout, snuffed Illinois' championship hopes. Jud Timm, star Illinois back, hurt his shoulder in the game and is out for the season.

Michigan, which rose to power and triumph Saturday by evicting Illinois and its championship hopes, will carry on by tangling with a traditional intercollegiate foe, the Navy, at Baltimore. It will be the fourth game between the rivals in as many years and while the Midwesterners are favorites, the Wolverines are

ST. JOSEPH TEAM BEATS BAYS 12-7
Connie Frank and Beck Star With Runs and Line Smashes

Displaying a powerful line plunging attack, St. Joseph junior high school football team crashed through to a 12 to 7 victory over Cathedral Junior high team of Green Bay on Wilson grounds Sunday afternoon. While the local parochial youngsters chalked up only two counters they should have had at least two more for they were within a few yards of the Bay line several times and lost the ball only because they couldn't toss in something besides another line smash.

Connie Frank and a youngster by the name of Beck shared the line-light for the locals. Connie made the touchdowns and flashed a great all round game getting in numerous drives through the line and one or two nice dashes. But it was this youngster Beck who, as fullback, charged into the Bay line and through it after stopping until he was flat on the ground.

The St. Joe line also was playing great ball throughout the afternoon, charging the Bays with vicious intent and doing some beautiful tackling. Only when it came to holding out the Bays on punts did they fail and twice it caused them moments of agony.

St. Joseph started off with a vengeance soon after receiving the ball in the first quarter smashed its way to the five yard line where Connie Frank galloped around his own right end for the touchdown. The boys failed to kick goal. The second counter came in the same manner after the Redmen had approached the goal line on at least three occasions and failed to put the ball over.

The Boys scored their touchdown with two minutes left to play when they opened with a driving forward pass attack. Their efforts were un- knowningly aided by Coach Mel Heinritz who sent in a whole string of subs to finish the game and the youngsters, not warmed up and un- accustomed to the proceedings let Schutte, Bay end hide near the crowd and scoop a forward pass to dash 75 yards and across the line. The Bays then kicked goal.

When play was resumed St. Joseph tried but had a punt blocked and it was the Bays' ball in mid-field. The northerners again spee'd with passes but none failed to make connections.

GOLDN TORNADES WIN FROM ST. JOE GRADERS
There's a bunch of promising young football players up in the Third ward called the Golden Tornadoes and their latest wreckage is the eighth grade team of St. Joseph junior high, which they defeated Saturday morning 34 to 0. The game was played on the Third ward grounds.

The Tornadoes scored in the first few minutes when Rooney, fullback, plunged over the line. Late in the third quarter Hammill, tornado half intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards to count 9 punt blocked by Mortell, Tornado tackle accounted for another score. St. Joe eleven threatened only once on a series of passes.

The Tornado eleven is composed of youngsters under 13 years of age. Their lineup showed Hauch and Bodmer ends, Gage and Mortell tackles, McCann and E. Peerenboom guards, C. Peerenboom, center, C. Mortell, quarter, Hammill and Glasheen halves, and Rooney fullback. Mollen is a substitute guard.

in the game and Coach Rasmussen sent in a whole flock of substitutes. The final counter came on another long pass. Martin to Halverson with Charley Barnes being caught asleep. As the game ended Lawrence was passing with regularity in an attempt to get at least one touchdown.

Cardinals Outplay Tide To Win 15 To 0 Victory
Milwaukee — (AP)— Judging from Saturday's results, Wisconsin football teams play best in their home state.

University of Wisconsin entertained Alabama and sent them back to the south with an unpleasant memory of their first foray with Big Ten camps. Likewise Lombard college of Galesburg, Ill., strutted up to Carroll college to duplicate their last year's victory but dragged back home the loser by one point.

On the other hand, Marquette university took its gold pep in Iowa territory and after seemingly having the game already marked up in the book, lost out by the margin of a touchdown. Beloit was able to do no better than gain a scoreless tie with Lake Forest in the Illinois surroundings.

The Cardinal clearly outplayed their Dixie opponent to gain the 15 to 0 victory in Randall's stadium. They scored their first touchdown late in the first quarter and from that time the game was not in doubt. The visitors threatened the Cardinal goal line only once and that was turned back when it got to the 5-yard line.

A passing team, Wisconsin did not score through the air. Neither did Alabama use an air attack. The Badgers used only nine passes and completed one, while Alabama completed three out of the ten they tried.

"Watch Grinnell's passes" were the last words Coach Frank Murray hurled at his Marquette university football team as it trotted out on the field for the start of the second half. But either the Avalanche wasn't capable of it or the Grinnell Pioneers found them by surprise. For after the Milwaukee Hilltoppers led at the fourth quarter 13 to 0, the Iowans uncorked a series of passes that resulted in three touchdowns and a 20 to 13 victory.

FALLS, SUPERIOR IN SCORELESS TIE
Stevens Point With Three Wins, No Defeats Leads League

Milwaukee—(P)—The State Teachers college conference was football shy over the weekend. The usually ample quota of games divided to three as four of ten teams deserted the field completely Saturday, leaving only six contestants to hold the interest of the fans.

The anticipated struggle between River Falls and Superior materialized as two of the strongest teams in the teachers circuit fought to a scoreless tie. It was easily the outstanding game of the season so far and attracted more than 5,000 home-comers to Superior, the largest crowd ever to witness a football game there.

Superior outplayed River Falls, making 16 first downs to four for the visitors, but it was the down-staters who came closest to scoring.

Eau Claire was embedded more firmly than ever in the mire of the cellar position in the standings by the 14 to 13 defeat at the hands of Stout Institute of Menomonie.

Platteville joined Eau Claire in the cellar with its fourth defeat in conference games. Milwaukee took advantage of the opportunity to get a little punting practice after they had run up a 31 to 0 score at the half.

The final score was 43 to 0. The tie game between River Falls and Superior leaves Stevens Point at the top of the standings with three victories, no defeats, and no ties. Oshkosh and Whitewater also have unblemished records.

LOMBARD LOSES TO CARROLL "11"
Pioneers Score in Third Quarter of Series of passes

Waukesha—Carroll college showed the Red Devils of Lombard college, Lombard, Ill., Saturday how a comeback is staged. They defeated the Illinois college, 7 to 6, and thus evened the tally between the two schools. Last year it was Lombard's victory.

Lady Luck was on Carroll's side when Nickols of Lombard tried for the extra point after Lombard's only touchdown. His kick struck the crossbar and deflected thereby leaving Carroll on the long end of a 7 to 6 score.

Nickols played an outstanding game. He was injured early in the game and forced out at the end of the half, but was sent in to try for goal when there was a chance to tie the score.

Carroll made its touchdown in the fourth quarter, when she let go an aerial attack which netted a touchdown after three successive passes.

FOND DU LAC LOSES TO OSHKOSH, 18-12
Oshkosh — Oshkosh high school football team defeated Fond du Lac eleven by a score of 18 to 12 here this afternoon. The Sawdust city men scored their first touchdown in the first few minutes of play and the quarter ended 6 to 0. Fond du Lac soon followed and tied the score 6 to 6. Tadych starred for Oshkosh, throughout the game.

LOCAL BOWLERS IN THREE MATCH GAMES
Hoppy Sausage Five Again Will Meet Shorewood Ladies

Two Appleton bowling teams didn't fair so well in match games with outsiders over the weekend. Hoppies Weiners lost three games to an Eau Claire five in a match rolled on the Arcade alleys and the Hoppy Sausages were defeated by the White Way Restaurants. A match game between two local teams, the Hecker Shoes and the Five Aces went to the Shoes.

The Hoppy Sausage five will roll against the Shorewood ladies five next Sunday to settle a tie match. The Hotel Raleigh alleys at Oshkosh. One match was bowled at Milwaukee several weeks ago and the local five won. On the return match here the Shorewood five copped and the third game will determine the supremacy.

MOVIE OVER, YOU WOWS!
Red Cagle, some able critic believe, is as great a football player as Jim Thorpe, Eddie Mahan and George Gipp and a better player than Red Grange.

He has shown that he can carry the ball in the open field with as much skill as the other red head, and in addition he can charge, kick, pass, block and tackle as well as the immortals with whom he is being mentioned.

There is no doubt that Cagle gets help past the line of scrimmage and well through the secondary by magnificent interference, but the Illinois "77" wouldn't have gone far in any game without Britton and McIlwain clearing the way for him.

GREAT ON DEFENSE, TOO
Tad Jones says that Cagle has football sense to an amazing degree, and that on the defense he is uncanny in placing himself in the path of a play or a pass. West Point records show that he has knocked down and intercepted more passes than all the other Army players combined.

Cagle can throw a ball with such precision that an observer named after the Harvard game that if each man at whom he had tossed a pass had stood at attention the ball would have hit him between the eyes. That's shooting. From the evidence and testimony then it would seem that Cadet Cagle is really very good.

RIGHT ON THE CHIN
Grand Old Man Staggs must have known that there was only a slight chance for Chicago to win a game, but there was no out for the grand old man. He said nothing and went into training to take it.

Michigan, Notre Dame and Chicago had no material to work with, the apparent but Harvard and Navy had much better material than the early season scores indicated and the old crabs whimpered.

Lon Little at Georgetown and Chick Meacham at New York University continue to produce winning teams without any abundance of spectacular talent and

LAKE FOREST AND BELOIT TIE, 0-0
Foresters Come Close Twice but Soggy Field Stops Attack

Lake Forest — Beloit and Lake Forest, after vainly attempting for four quarters to get their running attacks under way on a field that was ankle deep in mud ended Lake Forest's homecoming game in an 0-0 tie Saturday afternoon.

Both the ball and the field were in too soggy a condition to permit of any offensive save continued driving through the line and the precarious footing prevented any consistent gaining even by this route.

Lake Forest had something of an edge in ground gaining, twice coming within scoring distance only to fail. Their first opportunity came late in the first half when Johnson of Beloit fumbled on his own 10-yard line and Beloit was in the end zone, recovered the ball. The gun sounded for the half before Lake Forest had more than lined up for its first play.

In the second half superior punting by Martin drove Beloit back to its own five yard line and when Baker kicked on the first down his attempt was partially blocked. Johnson of Lake Forest drew a penalty for his team, however, by roughing Baker and Beloit was pulled out of danger by being given the ball for a first down on its own 20-yard line.

WISCONSIN DEATH RATE IS NORMAL

Record for Summer Shows
9.5 Deaths Per Thousand Population

Madison (AP)—Wisconsin's death rate for the summer months was 9.5 per thousand people, normal for that season, the quarterly report by the state board of health revealed today. The period covers July, August and September, in which there were total deaths of 6,504, an increase of 279 deaths over the same period in 1927. The report shows a decline in number of deaths from practically all of the communicable diseases except whooping cough, pneumonia and influenza.

The report singles out typhoid fever for special mention. This period having shown the fewest typhoid deaths in Wisconsin since mortality statistics were first compiled. "This desirable situation in 1928 has been brought about very largely," comments the report, "through the better protection of our public and private water supplies from pollution, better protection of food supplies, particularly milk, the work which has been done in the control of typhoid carriers and the use of the typhoid vaccine, particularly in homes where a case of typhoid fever has developed."

The report also comments favorably on the decline in deaths from diptheria, measles, and meningitis.

WHIRLWIND

BY ELEANOR EARLY

THIS HAS HAPPENED
SYBIL THORNE, who knows a good deal about men, meets RICHARD EUSTIS, an astonishing person, who proceeds to make immediate and passionate love. They are on their way to Cuba, where Sybil has planned to meditate quietly concerning her problematical marriage with CRAIG NEVHALL.

Craig is very much in love with her and possesses all the qualifications of an ideal husband, but Sybil has been haunted for years by the specter of her first young romance. JOHN LAWRENCE, who she adored when she was 18, went to France with the A. E. F. and never returned. Since then Sybil has sought to forget her heartbreak through various light affairs and countless indiscretions.

Following the death of her father and the marriage of her mother to VALERIE WEST, a frivolous creature, Sybil sails for Havana with MABEL BLAKE, a good-natured young woman, who is determined to get married. It was Mabel who saw Richard Eustis first and looked upon him longingly, but Eustis has never seen anyone but Sybil.

The first night they are together, he tells her that he is crazy about her and proposes to make her love him. He kisses her and she promises to meet him every night on deck. Fearfully excited and a little frightened, she awaits developments.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIII

Next morning Richard Eustis breakfasted in the saloon and that day he began his conquest of Sybil. "Morning, noon and night," complained Mabel, two days later. "And he won't give me a second!"

Mabel became a social creature. She chatted with Father Finn and the minister. She studied Spanish with the Corrales and knit a baby jacket for Mrs. Perkins. She sympathized with the Joneses in all their troubles and listened patiently to the lady from Wellesley.

"Anything," she explained, "to get away from Mabel. I wouldn't mind if he was the last man on earth—and happened to ask me. Now you know how I hate him."

"I suppose," hazarded Sybil, "if he hadn't grabbed you off that first evening Rich would never have fallen to my lot."

"You never can tell. Anyhow, I'll never forgive him for it."

Eustis was making frantic love to Sybil and everyone aboard was watching the progress of the affair with the avid interest of people who have nothing else to do.

"Don't think," besought Mabel, "that it's just a case of sour grapes—but, honestly, Sib, I think you'd be an awful clump if you threw Craig over."

"Who said I was going to? Anyhow, you thought Rich was pretty special yourself."

"I know I did, dear. And I do think he's absolutely fascinating. But he hasn't Craig's stability." Sybil. He's a sort of drifter. Oh, please don't misunderstand me, honey. I think as a lover he's a perfect knockout. But as a husband—well, you know yourself. Sybil, how perfectly wonderful Craig would be. Do you think Richard would be as dependable?"

"If you think Craig's so wonderful why don't you try and get him yourself?"

Mabel flushed darkly and instantly Sybil was contrite.

"Oh, Mab, I didn't mean that. Please forgive me. You're not angry, Mab?"

"Yes, I am. I'm darn good and sore. But you needn't worry. I'll mind my own business after this."

Mabel picked up a book and stalked from their stateroom in outraged dignity.

"There's one thing certain," she reflected grimly, "I'm in for a devil of a trip. Serves me right, running around with dappers. A lovesick kid on my hands—God help me!"

Eustis knocked on Sybil's door. "Come in," she called. And when he opened the door—"Well, if it isn't God's little gift to women! And how's my blue-eyed baby this morning?"

"Sybil, be serious. Where's Mab?"

"Out on the deck, with a book and a grinch."

"May I come in? I want to talk to you, away from all the good ladies and holy men."

She raised her lashes lazily.

"Go read your little book on etiquette. Don't you know gentlemen never invade a lady's boudoir? Besides, I haven't my mouth on yet."

He kissed her on the lips.

"There—that's better for them than a lip stick. How much longer are you going to kid me along, Sybil?"

"How inelegantly the gentleman talks!"

She nestled against his shoulder.

"If Mab comes in, she'll have a fit. If the steward shows up, you'll have to tip him. This is outrageous."

"You like it, don't you?" He held her very close.

"Love it. Oh, my dear, you'll choke me!"

Always, from love and kisses, their conversation turned to marriage. Richard, in laughing, modernistic fashion, condemned it soundly.

"But, my darling," he told her now, releasing her lips lingeringly. "I'd almost marry you—I swear I would."

"I suppose," she hazarded lightly. "If it was the only way you could have me, you might be induced to consider it."

"Exactly," he agreed. "A man will do anything if he wants a woman badly enough."

"And you want me that bad?" she taunted.

"I want you," he told her solemnly. "So much that it's an ache in my bones. A hungry gnaw eats me night and day."

He took her in his arms and when she clung to him trembling, he whispered softly:

"It's holding you, dear—like this—it's enough to make me or any man drunk. Don't you know that?"

She drew herself away and pouring water from the decanter, drank it slowly. When she put the glass down her voice was steady.

"No, man ever made love like this to me before who didn't want to marry me," she remarked slowly. "You make me feel sort of defiled. I don't like it."

Deliberately she powdered her nose and touched her lips. When she had inspected herself critically in the mirror, she pulled on a small felt hat.

"Come up on deck," she invited. "Bedrooms, all here, with powder and scent, navvate me. It's almost eleven. They'll be serving broth in a few minutes."

They found their chairs, and when he had slipped a pillow beneath her head, he stretched indolently beside her.

"You mustn't think," she began acidly, continuing their conversation where they had left it off, "that I'm trying to worm a proposal out of you. Because I wouldn't marry you for the world."

He reached for her fingers.

"You know," he told her, "that you possess me entirely."

"Fiddlesticks!" she retorted, and snatched her hand away.

"I never did ask a girl to marry me," he remarked ruminatively. "I've always thought of marriage as a sort of trap. And of course it's desire that springs the thing."

She said nothing.

"I'd make such a rotten husband," he continued speculatively. "I'm much too brilliant."

And when she flashed him a look of withering scorn, he rallied his defenses humorously. "Morons make the best husbands, you know, Sybil. I've always said so. Look at the awful things marriage does to clever people. Now I've seen lots of fine, promising fellows—"

"Oh, shut up, Richard!"

"But I have," he insisted. "And just as soon as they get married, what happens? Same old tread mill. Same old rut—"

"I hold no brief for marriage," she interrupted him primly. "And your views don't interest me a bit."

"But they ought to!" he protested. "Everyone's interested in marriage. To marry happily one needs a single track mind—now I know what I'm talking about. Sybil. You'd better listen."

"I won't!" she snapped, and put her fingers in her ears.

"Oh, well," Richard shrugged indifferently. And when she had taken her hands away, remarked casually, "You'd make a rotten wife yourself you know, darling."

"Why?" she demanded.

"You're not stupid enough," he told her cheerfully. "Gentle, fruitful women make the best wives."

"I'm gentle," she told him. "And I must be dreadfully stupid, or I wouldn't put up with you."

"Oh, no," he contradicted gently. "You're not stupid, Sybil. You are a very highly strung, sensitized bit of organism, utterly unsuited for anything so tranquil as matrimony. You ought to be clever enough to see that, my dear. If you must get married, cultivate placidity."

"Oh, please!" she besought. "I don't want to get married. Let's talk about something else."

Lazy days, and tropical nights. Cocktails and kisses. Love on a painted ocean. Moon and stars. And darkness all about.

They stood on the boat deck, deserted at midnight, and leaning over the water gleam like molten silver.

"It's magical!" Sybil cried. "It's the loveliest thing I ever saw. Every blessed wave has turned to silver! What made them, Richard?"

"The water," he informed her, "emits light without sensible heat. The chemical properties—"

"I told you!" she interrupted gaily. "Of course it's magic. There's no such thing as light without heat. It's only make-believe. It's water sprites weaving tapestries for Neptune. Or maybe it's the ocean turned upside down, and that's its silver carpet."

"Anyhow it's enchanted. It's the loveliest night in the world. Oh, Rich, I feel bewitched! It's full of sorcery. Lovely, lovely night!"

"My dear," he answered, "you make me think of a beautiful poem. It must have been written for a girl like you on a night like this."

He repeated the lines softly.

"She walks in beauty, like the night Of cloudless climes and starry skies; And all that's best of dark and bright Meet in her aspect and her eyes; Thus mellow'd to that tender light Which Heaven to gaudy day denies."

When he had finished, there was that thick, heavy silence that closes about lovers everywhere, who stand beneath the moon. And when he spoke again he whispered, as lovers always do at midnight.

"Only a few more hours!"

"If we could make life stand still!" she murmured. "It's been so wonderful."

"We're docking before noon," he replied. His voice was dull with misery.

"And I'll never, never see you again!" She tried to say it lightly. (To Be Continued)

(Richard actually asks Sybil to marry him! And that is not the only surprising thing that happens in the next chapter.)

Notice of General and Presidential Election

NOVEMBER 6th 1928

COUNTY OF OUTAGAMIE }
STATE OF WISCONSIN } ss

TO THE ELECTORS OF OUTAGAMIE COUNTY:

Office of County Clerk

OCT. 17TH, 1928

Notice is hereby given that a General and Presidential election is to be held in the several towns, wards, villages and election precincts in the county of Outagamie, on the 6th day of November, 1928, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The names of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to or filed in this office, are given under the title of the office and under the appropriate party or other designation, each in its proper column, in the sample ballots below.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters:

SECURING BALLOTS—

622 (1) (a). A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a copy of each ballot from the ballot clerk which must have indorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballots, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

STATE AND COUNTY OFFICERS—

(b) If a voter wishes to vote for all the candidates nominated by any party he shall make a cross or other mark under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose. A ballot so marked and having no other mark will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been erased or a name shall be written in or cross mark be placed in the square at the right of the name or names of candidates in another column. If the voter does not wish to vote for all the candidates nominated by one party, he shall mark his ballot by making a cross or mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote, or by inserting or writing in the name of the candidate.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES—

(c) A voter by making a mark in the square to the right of the names of any group of presidential candidates, casts a vote for each of the electors supporting such candidates. A mark should be made in one square only. List of electors may be found on file with the county clerk.

MARKING BALLOTS—

(d) If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but no more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memoranda to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

FOLDING AND VOTING BALLOTS—

(e) After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed indorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballots to be placed in the ballot boxes, and pass out of the voting place.

ASSISTANCE TO VOTER—

(f) A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion, as to such person's disability.

(h) The following are facsimiles of the official ballots:

JOHN E. HANTSCHER, County Clerk.

If you desire to vote an entire party ticket for state, congressional, legislative and county offices make a cross (X) or other mark in the circle (O) under the party designation at the head of the ballot. If you desire to vote for particular persons without regard to party, mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote, if it be there, or write any name that you wish to vote for in the proper place.

RECORDS OF STATE IN ARSON CASES PRIVATE

Madison—(P)—The state fire marshal need not give attorneys for a person charged with arson the state's records in the case, even though the statutes require the fire marshal's records to be public. Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann so ruled here in the case of Mrs. Mabel Spencer against K. A. Freedy, state insurance commissioner and ex-officio state fire marshal.

"If I ruled otherwise it would mean that defendants in arson cases would, before their cases were tried, be in possession of all information in the hands of the state and make impossible the successful prosecution of arson cases," the judge commented.

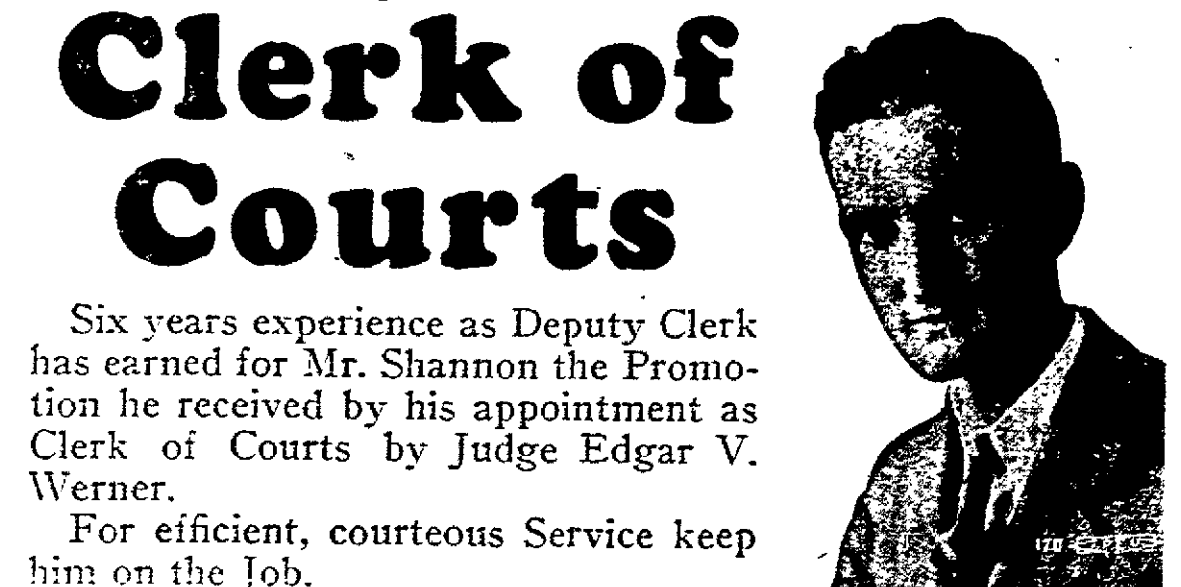

Deputy state fire marshals arrested her husband and charged him with arson after buildings Mrs. Spencer owned in the town of Wolf, Langlade county, were burned. Spencer's attorneys moved that the fire marshal be required to allow them to examine the records, but the request was refused. So Judge Hoppmann, in the court before which state officers are generally haled, was asked for a writ of mandamus compelling Commissioner-marshal Freedy to hand over the record. Judge Hoppmann refused this request.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

In Martha Washington's New York home, all the formality and stiffness of court manners were observed. No one was admitted to the receptions who was not dressed according to the rules prescribed by the president's wife. Above is pictured a scene at one of her receptions. The ladies are all elaborately gowned, which was one of the requirements.

Mrs. Washington herself, while precise and dignified, was kind hearted and endeared herself to all she met. Quiet taste marked her household.

Many of the gowns she wore and many of her husband's suits such as the one in which he was inaugurated were woven in her own household.

In the second year of Washington's administration the seat of government was moved to Philadelphia. When his term expired, the couple moved their belongings to their home, Mount Vernon, where to this day the very objects used in the household of the first president have been preserved. Mrs. Washington lived three years after the first president died.

Mechanics Take New Machine from Garage to Make Needed Changes

New London—Considerable excitement prevailed Saturday when rumors were current that auto thieves had visited this city early in the morning and had stolen a new Ford sedan from the Alfred Worm garage on Lawrence-st., leaving an old Chevrolet in its place. The alleged theft was discovered by a neighbor woman who witnessed the entrance of the supposed thieves into the Worm yard and their getaway with the new car. She hastened to arouse Mr. Worm who is employed at night and who at the time was asleep. He in turn immediately communicated with Police Chief Andrew Lueck, who found that the license number on the Chevrolet showed that the car formerly belonged to an Antigo party who had recently turned it over to a local garage. The new Ford was in need of a few finishing touches and, unknown to the family, mechanics from the garage using the service worn Chevrolet, had proceeded to the Worm garage to take the new machine for the necessary work and had left the old one for the time being.

Hobart Rural School Has Served Pupils 70 Years

Special to Post-Crescent

Royalton—Among the oldest organizations of Waupaca-co are its rural schools. The first county election was held in April, 1851, in August of that year County Superintendent Simon C. Dow gave the following report: "Whole number of districts set off, eight; number of schools taught in each district, three. No public money raised. Number of children in districts 165. Average wages paid female teachers, $50; amount raised on expended, $72; whole valuation of school houses, $350."

At an annual meeting of the county board held at the county seat in Mukwa, Nov. 15, 1853, township 22 range 13 was set apart as a separate district.

The district was named Hobart for its first teacher, Miss Ellen Hobart, who taught there for many years. As she was paid with town orders to be cashed by the town treasurer in case the treasury was low, she frequently sold her orders at a discount that might be able to convert them into cash promptly. The school year was formerly divided into a five months winter term and three months summer term and for lack of high school privileges many young men and women frequently attended during the winter. The enrollment often reached 60 pupils.

Joseph Groher, son of Aheardt Groher and William C. Ritchie, son of George Ritchie, are now the only first pupils of the Hobart school who are still living in that district. Great grandchildren of Henry Stillman and George Ritchie are among the present pupils.

The district has always been active and progressive. A domestic club was organized for the women of the district March 26, 1914. Mrs. Ida Stillman is president at present. A Memorial Day association was organized in 1911.

Many persons who have either taught in the Hobart school or been pupils of it have filled places of prominence and honor in the world's work. Two of its teachers were forward widely known. Edna Thiberts was for many years interpreter of foreign languages at Washington, D. C., and the late Col. John Hicks of Oshkosh, was for many years United States minister to Peru and editor of the Oshkosh Northwestern.

The Troop No. 1, of the local Boy Scouts has been completely reorganized within the past week. Four new patrol leaders were appointed. Scouts, Lytle Leffler, Donald Olsen, Schlichte and LeRoy Hughes. These leaders were given assistant patrol leaders to work with.

Mrs. Charles Beckhaus entertained a number of friends at a bridge party at the Lions clubhouse. Clover Leaf lakes, Friday afternoon. Four tables of bridge were in play. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. James Devine, Mrs. Howard Morton and Mrs. William Schmidt. The guests included: Mrs. Howard Morton, Mrs. Al Phil, Mrs. William Rosnow, Mrs. Frank Kohl, Mrs. Arthur Loepke, Mrs. J. J. Morry, Mrs. John Elsbury, Mrs. Otto Ebbert, Mrs. Paul Dekarske, Mrs. Lyman Stevens, Mrs. James Devine, Mrs. Alfred Kratzke, Mrs. Howard Bove, Mrs. Joseph Stein and Mrs. William Schmidt. A 5:30 dinner was served.

town to be called Royalton. In 1853 three miles south of the little town then called "North Royalton," twelve families had located and were establishing new homes in the wilderness and gradually cutting of the heavy body of timbers and clearing farms. They were D. C. Bent, Henry R. Crane, George Groher, Aheardt Groher, Saleman Hobart, I. Lamb, George Ritchie, Webster Stanley, Henry F. Stillman, Peter Schwab and Eli Norton. A school district was organized and I. Lamb took the contract of furnishing all the material and erecting the building for the sum of $400. He built a structure of such sound material that it has withstood the winds and storms of 70 years and has seen several generations enter and pass from its doors. To be sure the building has been enlarged, but the frame and main parts are the original.

VOTE EARLY, IS OFFICIALS' PLEA TO CITY VOTERS

Citizens Are Urged to Cast Ballot in Morning if They Can Possibly Do So

Vote early! Issuing this plea to the public, city officials Monday were making final preparations for the general election Tuesday when the largest number of voters were to cast their ballots in Appleton is expected to appear at the polls.

In view of the possibility of a record-breaking vote, citizens are urged to cast their vote at their earliest convenience Tuesday. Failure to do this may result in a congestion later in the day so intense that voting officials may find it practically impossible to handle the situation, it is pointed out.

As many people as can possibly do so are urged to vote Tuesday morning on their way to work. With the polls opening at 6 o'clock in the morning, the laboring man can easily be accommodated. Officials declare, and especially does the vote early plea apply to women, according to officials. Housewives should find no difficulty whatever in leaving their homes for a few minutes in the morning to go to the polls and are heartily urged to do this rather than wait until later in the day.

In order to facilitate the task of handling the anticipated crowd, additional voting booths have been erected in practically every precinct in the city. It is reported by Alderman Mike Steinhauer, chairman of the streets and bridges committee of the common council, that the electric lights have been installed in the booths in place of the candles which have heretofore been used.

The increased visibility is expected to aid in speeding up the voters.

The voting places will be located as follows:

First ward—First precinct, First ward school; second precinct, Treas. store.

Second ward—First precinct, Armory; second precinct, city hall.

Third ward—First precinct, Nash garage, College-ave; second precinct, Seamless Tube Co., Spencer and Story-sts.

Fourth ward—First precinct, John-st and Water-ave; second precinct, McKinley Junior High school, west entrance.

Fifth ward—First precinct, Stock fair grounds; second precinct, Washington school.

Sixth ward—First precinct, Fink grocery; second precinct, Arnold's egg store.

Election officials have been requested by Alderman Steinhauer to refrain from smoking inside the election booths. This, also applies to voters. This action was deemed necessary because some of the voting places are located in school houses, and because of the large expected turnout of women.

MORE THAN 14,000 REGISTERED HERE

Approximately 4,000 Get Names to Poll List Since Primary, Clerk Reports

With more than 14,000 people registered, indications are that a record vote will be cast here Tuesday, according to Carl Becker, city clerk. Approximately 4,000 people have registered since the primary elections, Sept. 4. Several hundred people late in registering will vote by affidavit providing they are able to get the signatures of two freeholders in the same precinct, according to Mr. Becker.

It is expected over 500 absent voters will have sent in their ballots before the polls close at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Thus far nearly 450 have been received from local voters who are to be found in nearly every state in the union and Canada, according to Mr. Becker. Ballots were received by airmail, and special delivery, and several voters made special trips, some for hundreds of miles, to cast their vote.

The average number of registrations from each of the 12 precincts is approximately 1,200, according to Mr. Becker. It is hoped that most of the people who vote by affidavit will have had their freeholder signatures secured by Tuesday, so that the polls will not be congested with people looking for neighbors who are to favor them with their signatures.

PROBE ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES IN REGISTRATIONS

Republican officials announced Monday morning that a very close investigation was being made of rumors that some citizens under 21 year of age had registered and were intending to vote.

The officials would make no specific charges and said that their investigations were being made entirely on rumors. They intimated, however, that if anything irregular was found, that some definite action would be taken.

Taking advantage of the state law the Republican have appointed "challengers" who will be on duty at every voting precinct in the city Tuesday to question the right of every person to vote.

These challengers also have the authority to oversee the counting of ballots.

RENEW CONTRACT FOR LEGIONAIRE

Official Legion Publication Will Be Published Here for Five More Years

Another step in the plan to make Appleton a publishing center was taken over the weekend when officers of the Midwest Publishing company renewed the contract with the Badger Legionaire board, to edit and publish the Badger Legionaire for another five years. On Jan. 1, 1929, the publication will become a monthly and will be published in Appleton. The newspaper was published at Wisconsin Rapids. The paper goes to 30,000 members of the legion in the state.

Publication of the Badger Legionaire is directly in the hands of the Legionaire board made up of the state commander and adjutant and three other legion men, one appointed each year for a three-year term. The Midwest Publishing company enters into agreement with the board whose actions are approved by the state department executive committee.

STRONG AND ACTIVE TRADING ON MARKET

Oil and Public Utilities Shares Heavily Bought on Stock Exchange

New York.—The stock market opened strong and active Monday. Wright Aero and Canadian Pacific each started 1 1/2 points higher. American Smelting and Westinghouse Electric opened 1 point higher and substantial advances were shown by U. S. Steel, Hudson Motor and Briggs Manufacturing.

Sales of a block of 50,000 shares of Barnhill A. at 4 1/2, and a new high record for the early trading. Pan American "B" moved up more than a point to a new top at 5 1/2, and Consolidated climbed 3 points to a new high at 21 1/2.

Opening strength gave way to irregularity as election nervousness became more pronounced. There was little in the weekend news to influence the selling of stocks as a majority of the earnings and trade reports were distinctly favorable. Bankers also indicated the prospect of easier money rates later in the week.

Foreign exchange opened firm with sterling cables slightly stronger and dollar 18 1/2. Heavy buying of the oil and public utilities shares featured the morning trading. New high record for the year were established by Standard Oil of New Jersey and California. Tidewater Preferred, American Oil and Standard Oil of New York, Brooklyn Gas and American Waterworks, with point gains, the public utilities group extended its gain to nearly 3 points and Canadian Pacific and Wright Aeronautical each sold 3/4 points higher.

PLAN DINNER FOR CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH MEMBERS

Appleton Laymen Will Attend Affair at Oshkosh on Thursday, Nov. 15

A dinner for about 400 Congregational laymen of this region is being arranged for Thursday, Nov. 15, at the Hotel Athearn in Oshkosh. Hon. Wm. E. Sweet of Denver will be the principal speaker. Similar dinners have been held in Boston, New York, Chicago and Washington. Calvin Coolidge, a Congregational layman, attended the one in Washington.

The Appleton church has been assigned a quota of 70 men for this dinner and arrangements are being made for the delegation to go to Oshkosh by auto that evening. R. H. Marston is chairman of the local committee of arrangements, and A. J. Ingold, secretary. The purpose of these gatherings, East and West, is to promote fellowship among Congregational men, and to give an intimate portrayal of their Christian enterprise around the world. There will be no financial solicitation connected with the meeting. The objectives are information and friendship.

Hon. William E. Sweet is a native of Illinois though most of his life has been spent in Colorado. He was graduated at Swarthmore college in 1899; in his early young manhood he established the William E. Sweet & Co. firm of investment bankers in Denver. Some time since he retired from business and now gives most of his time to social and religious work.

He is a trustee of the University of Denver; he not only has been president of the Young Men's Christian association but is a member of the National Council of the Young Men's Christian association and was divisional secretary in France during the war. In 1923 and 1924 he was Governor of Colorado. At the present time he is associate moderator of the National Council of Congregational churches. For many years Mr. Sweet has given a great deal of time to the study of public questions and the promotion of progressive ideas.

As associate moderator of the National Council of the Congregational churches he will be eagerly welcomed by the Congregational men of Wisconsin as he speaks for five suc-

Here is a radio score card for your use as election returns come to you over the radio. It tabulates the states, their full electoral count and leaves blanks for the Hoover Smith votes. As a state seems certain for either candidate, its apportionment of electoral votes may be inserted into his column and so the national trend may be discerned. In order to make this more interesting and instructive, the electoral votes for the candidates in 1924 are given alongside, so that comparisons can easily be made.

LEGISLATURE TO GET HUMANE TRAPPING PLEA

Madison (AP)—Among the myriad subjects to come before the 1929 legislature is the matter of traps. Ole A. Stolen, state humane agent, Monday said that one of the most important subjects the legislature is to consider the will bring it up is humane trapping. "While several humane traps have been invented, it will be some time before they will be perfected and come into general use. In the meantime the use of the present steel traps should be so regulated that every trap will be inspected at least once a day, and so as to require trapping to be done with as little danger as possible to dogs and other domestic animals." He added that there are other subjects concerning humane legislation that will probably come before the legislature, and asked interested persons to submit suggestions to him. Mr. and Mrs. C. Fischer and son, Herbert, and Donald Buck returned Saturday evening from a three months vacation trip through the several western states. Robert Zuehlke, chief clerk of the Chicago and Northwestern freight depot, is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Many Here Who Try Hospital Method in Own Homes Get Almost Instant Relief

Quick, sure relief—then the joy of waking up without the misery caused by neglecting a cold at this season.

This experience of Miss Gertrude Cary has been shared recently by numbers of people in Appleton and vicinity. For doctors are now recommending home use of a hospital method that ends colds quickly—often in a few hours—yet is inexpensive and pleasant to take.

Miss Cary, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so fast she called her doctor. Relief began almost instantly when he advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients used in treating even extreme hospital cases. "With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth. In an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion. When she awoke the next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely."

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician. Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person tomorrow. At Schintz Bros. and all druggists—50c. and, twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

A Vote for SMITH is a Vote for VICTORY

SMITH WINS

He carried his message clearly and fully to the voters of his country. He showed no fear of any issue or any group. The people respect him for his candor. They are all ready to repay him with election.

THEY WANT SMITH

Beware of False Prophets

The smoke screen has been lifted. The Hoover candidacy has reduced itself to the making of claims. Consider their unsupported statements concerning Illinois, Massachusetts, Connecticut and other States. Compare their unfounded assumptions with the spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm which greeted Governor Smith in those States. This enthusiasm means votes on Election Day.

Don't Let Them Scare You

Gov. Smith Said:

"That not one single thing under a Democratic Administration would happen to the Tariff that would take a single five cent piece out of the weekly pay envelope of the American workman, or would in any way interfere with or injure business large or small." 90 per cent of the Democratic Senators and Congressmen endorsed this statement by telegraph and pledged their support. He Never Broke a Promise

Deafening Radio Applause

Radio listeners who hear the roars of applause which greet Governor Smith wherever he goes will testify to the appeal of the man and his message. People don't cheer like that except when their convictions are stirred to the depths. Did you ever applaud anyone you would not vote for? Try it. The applause is prophetic of Smith's election. Have you ever known such enthusiasm for any candidate?

CLAIM VOTE IN COUNTY WILL BE VERY CLOSE

Writer Says Majority for Smith or Hoover Will Not Exceed 500

BY H. K. DERUS
At Smith will carry Outagamie-co. Herbert Hoover will carry Outagamie-co.
And furthermore both candidates will pool a huge majority of the votes in the county and both will carry the city of Appleton.
There's the dope after talking to political leaders of both groups. Take your choice.
This writer's prediction is that Outagamie-co will not go Democrat or Republican by more than 500 votes either way.
What is certain, however, is that Outagamie-co will cast a record vote next Tuesday when somewhere near 20,000 citizens will go to the polls to express their preference for candidates for county, state and national offices.

LARGE REGISTRATION
Registration polls of the city of Appleton have swelled beyond the 13,000 mark as compared with only 9,000 on the poll lists four years ago. In Kaukauna there are about 3,500 votes registered and that is about twice as many as voted in the last presidential election. In 1924 a total of 16,327 votes were cast for president and it is likely that there will be in the neighborhood of 20,000 cast this year—more than were ever cast in any election in Outagamie-co.
In 1924 La Follette polled 3,625 votes in the county, Coolidge was second with 6,578 and Davis was third with 1,124.

SMITH SUPPORTERS
It is well known that prominent Progressives are supporting Smith and Democratic leaders base their claims for a Smith victory on the basis of the vote cast in 1924. They point out that Smith will hold the "regular" Democratic votes which Davis got in 1924 and that he will poll in addition most of those votes cast for La Follette. If Smith got all these votes he would have a total of almost 10,000 and if Hoover held all the Republican votes of 1924 he would have 6,578.

But, say the Republicans, the Progressives vote will not go entirely to Smith and then there is the immense increase in registration which much be taken into consideration. And these facts lead the G. O. P. men to consider Outagamie "safe" for Hoover.

Interest in the presidential election is so intense that it is overshadowing the state and county elections almost completely. In order to get any attention candidates for these offices must speak on national issues.
KOHLER WILL WIN
Most old time politicians are certain that Walter J. Kohler, Republican nominee for governor, will carry the county by a much larger vote than he did in the primary election when he had a majority of about 500. Democratic leaders refuse to comment on this phase of the election but they are working in a determined manner for their candidate, Mayor A. G. Schmiedeman of Madison. Little talk is heard about the county on any other candidates for state office and there is little talk of that.

Candidates for county offices are having a hard time gaining attention of the voters. Despite the fact that for the first time in many years there are Democratic candidates for many offices the interest in the county election is only lukewarm. Not as much attention is being paid to the election of county offices as there was to naming county candidates at the primary election.

At Smith and Herb Hoover have shored everything else in the background.

Evidence that the county is fighting ground is given in the intense campaign being carried on by the Democratic and the Republican county committees. Both staged a series of political rallies in central points in the county and both have brought prominent speakers to Appleton. The leaders of the party lashed their workers in a last minute effort to get out the vote and the results will be tallied Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

London—Police are investigating an unusual shipment recently received by a woman resident of Leigh-on-Sea. It consisted of the body of a baby boy packed in a wooden box. The sender is being traced through a threatening letter included in the package.

CLINTONVILLE IS DEFEATED 16-12 BY MENASHA HIGH

Local Squad Takes Lead Early in Game to Down Visiting Eleven

Menasha—Menasha high school's fighting football team emerged with colors flying after a grueling struggle with the Clintonville high school eleven at Butte des Morts athletic field by a 16 to 12 score Saturday afternoon. Both teams scored a touchdown in the first quarter, Menasha also making the extra point to give them a 7 to 6 lead. Clintonville took the lead as the second quarter got under way, but held it for only a few minutes, when Menasha intercepted a Clintonville pass on their own 45 yard line, returning the Clintonville 10 yard line before being brought down. Calder then rushed Poquette, Menasha's backfield ace into the game, and the locals went over for a touchdown, giving them a 13 to 12 lead as the half ended. The second half found both teams unable to do very much when the starting distance, the big feature being Lanza's drop kick from his own 20 yard line, the Menasha quarterback standing only a few feet from the sidelines when he attempted his successful try for a field goal.

FIRST QUARTER
Menasha kicked off. After Clintonville brought the ball back to their 35 yard line, they punted to Menasha's 35 yard line. Menasha gained 15 yards on two plays, and Clintonville took time out. The Menasha back swept down the field behind perfect interference for a touchdown. Menasha again kicked off. Clintonville returning to their 35 yard line. Too much time calling signals cost the visitors a five yard penalty, a perfect pass netted 25 yards, and another pass was good for 20 yards. Clintonville then swept around the ends for a touchdown, failing to make the extra point. Clintonville now kicked off, and Menasha brought the ball back to Clintonville's 40 yard line, then punting to the visitors 20 yard line. The ball rested on the 35 yard line as the quarter ended.

SECOND QUARTER
A long pass gained 25 yards, a smash through the line was good for 15 yards and Clintonville took time out with the ball on Menasha's 15 yard line. Clintonville smashed through the Menasha line for a touchdown. Menasha took the ball after the kickoff and rushed it down to the Clintonville 25 yard line where they lost it on downs. An exchange of punts followed, Menasha intercepting a pass a moment later and rushing down to the visitors 10 yard line. Poquette was rushed into the game and Menasha went over for a touchdown, just before the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER
Menasha received the kickoff, and got as far as their 30 yard line before being forced to punt. Clintonville kicked back, the punt was partially blocked and Menasha took the ball on the visitors 40 yard line; the locals were forced to punt, and Clintonville came back to the 45 yard line where they lost the ball on downs as the quarter ended.

FOURTH QUARTER
Menasha was held and punted straight up into the air, the visitors taking the ball on Menasha's 45 yard line, a pass netted 25 yards; the next pass was intercepted on Menasha's 15 yard line. An exchange of punts followed, Menasha getting the ball on Clintonville's 35 yard line. Menasha slashed its way to the 8 yard line, where Clintonville's line stiffened. Lanza then dropped back to his 20 yard line, and from a difficult angle scored a field goal for the final three points of the game just before the whistle blew.

KAWMEN WALK OVER TWIN CITY SQUAD

Kaukauna Takes Listless Battle from Menasha Eleven, 34 to 0

Menasha—Playing a listless game of football, the Twin City professional team was trampled on Sunday afternoon at Recreation park by Kaukauna by a score of 34 to 0. The locals never had a chance after the first quarter. Kaukauna had the ball on the Twin City 3 yard line when the first quarter ended, going over for a touchdown immediately after the second period opened. They made the extra point. After the next kickoff, Menasha fumbled on their own 20 yard line, and the Kaukauna backs circled the ends for a touchdown, making the score 13 to 0 at the end of the first half.

Kaukauna looked even better in the second half. Taking the ball on the local 40 yard line, they marched straight down the field for a touchdown, again making the extra point, bringing the score up to 20 to 0. Menasha was stubborn when the visitors came into the scoring distance, holding Kaukauna on the 10 inch line at the end of the third quarter. Kaukauna had two downs in which to make that half foot, but the locals held, their attempted punt, however, was blocked behind their own goal line, and a Kaw player fell on the ball for a touchdown. They also made the extra point, making the score 27 to 0.

Kaukauna again threatened in the final minutes of play, being held for downs on the Twin City 5 yard line. The locals punted to the 50 yard line, but the ball was returning to the 5 yard line, and Kaukauna went over on the first play for their last touchdown. This extra point was good, and Kaukauna went home with the game tucked away.

About half of the 300 odd fans at the game were from Kaukauna.

HIGH SCHOOL DROPS 25 TO 12 GAME TO TWO RIVERS ELEVEN

Neenah Gridders Put Up Best Performance of Year to Score Twice

Neenah—The high school football team was defeated Saturday afternoon by Two Rivers, 25 to 12, at Citizens' athletic field. The game started with a number of secondary men in the Neenah lineup and it appeared as though the team was going to win. Three minutes had not elapsed before Hewitt, Neenah end, went over for a touchdown on a 30-yard pass from Schneller. The Two Rivers team was held to a scoreless quarter.

Two Rivers made its first score in the second quarter when Stanell, fullback, after his team had forced the ball from mid-field to within the 10-yard line, took a pass and got over for six points, the half ending in a tie.

Again in the third quarter Two Rivers' quarterback Puperter, got over on a long pass from Rosey and again in the last quarter Becker, right half for Two Rivers, got the third marker, followed soon after by Rosey who lifted the ball to a winning resting place after his smash, on a series of center smashes and passes, taken the ball to within two inches from the goal. Becker made the extra point on a pass and end run.

Close to the finish of the game, Shea, Neenah's fullback, placed the ball in a safe place after it had been taken by Gallmeier to within 10 yards from the goal on a 30-yard pass. Neenah failed to make the extra points. Four times during the game, Neenah had the ball within a foot from the Two Rivers goal and failed to make the downs.

RIVERS PASSES WELL

Two Rivers had an exceptionally fast passing team and executed several damaging end runs which form of play was its big asset in winning. The Neenah team played the best game so far this season, showing great improvement over the last game but still lacks the hard fighting tactics started in a time when needed.

Neenah started its game with Thomson at center, Hanson and Blom guards; Clough and O'Brien, tackles; Quayle and Hewitt, ends; Schneller, fullback, Jensen and Grogan, halfbacks and Fahrrenkrug, quarterback. As the game proceeded substitutions were made from first string players. Two Rivers had Hoffman and Becker, guards; Gelz and Heppes, tackles; Stall and Belisle, guards; Fry, center; Puperter, quarterback; Stone and Becker, halfbacks, and Rosey, fullback. Pickett and Thornton officiated.

Neenah will play its last game of the season Saturday with menasha at the Menasha grounds. Hard work will be put up to the boys during the week by Coach Jorgenson in an effort to close the season with a win.

MOTORIST RUNS INTO FRONT OF DRUG STORE

Neenah—In an attempt to avoid a collision at the N. Commercial-st and Forest-ave corner Sunday evening, Miss Bernice Boersen drove her car on to sidewalk, crashing in to the front door of the Island Drug company store before she could stop. The screen door was demolished and the door framework damaged. A bicycle belonging to G. Bunker was parked at the curb, was demolished by the car as it rode over it. Miss Boersen was driving west and approaching the corner directly in front of her. The only alternative was to give the wheel a quick turn to the right.

SENT TO WORKHOUSE ON DRUNKENNESS CHARGE

Neenah—Thomas Dyer was sentenced to 10 days at Winnebago-co. workhouse Monday morning by Justice Harness on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was arrested Sunday evening.

NOTED GREEN BAY ATTORNEY IS DEAD

Leonard A. Parr, pastor of the Union Congregational church, and a close friend of the family, will be in charge. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery, with private services at the cemetery.

BORN AT CEDARSBURG

Even Roger Minahan was born at Cedarburg, 46 years ago on Jan. 26, 1882, the only child of Dr. Robert E. Minahan and Mrs. Nellie Mulcahy Minahan. After receiving his early education in the grade schools of Kewaunee, he entered east high school in Green Bay and was a graduate with the class of 1909. He then attended the University of Wisconsin, receiving his B. A. degree in 1903 and his L. D. degree in 1905. Since his admission to the bar in that year he had been engaged in the practice of law in Green Bay. At first he was associated with the Vi L. Minahan; then Hugh A. Minahan became a member of the firm and later Edward M. Dugan. About two years ago V. I. Minahan retired and Hugh A. Minahan withdrew from the firm to become deputy attorney general. Since that time the business has been carried on by Eben Minahan and Mr. Duquaine, under the firm name of Minahan & Duquaine.

Other business connections of Mr. Minahan included the presidency of the People's Savings and Trust company and the directorship of the Green Bay Paper and Pulp company, the Hudson-Sharp Machine company, and the Diana Manufacturing company. He was especially active during and after the war, being chairman of the local unit of the Defense League, local chief of the American Protective League, chairman of the Home Service section of the United States chapter of the American Red Cross and chairman of the Brown county War History committee.

No less marked was his loyalty to his high school and university. Of his university affiliations it is said that he never missed a University of Wisconsin football game unless absolutely prevented from attending.

NOTED SPEAKER, READER

In addition to being a patron of the usual outdoor sports he was an ardent tennis fan, and was a member of the Green Bay Tennis team when it won the Smith trophy in the Wisconsin Tennis league for a number of years. He was also an organizer of the Fox River country club. He was in much demand as a speaker and a reader and achieved considerable note as a biographer of Eben Rexford, Shiocton composer who wrote Silver Threads among the Gold; and also through his addresses on the United States constitution in connection with his work on the Americanization committee of the American Bar association. Professionally he was rated as one of the very ablest attorneys in the city and in the state. His career numbered several cases of much importance and included practice before the Supreme Court of the United States, the United States Circuit court of appeals, the United States court of claims, United States district court, and Wisconsin supreme court.

Mr. Minahan was married to Miss Jessie Copp at Green Bay on Jan. 30, 1909. She survives him with three children: Roger, a first year student at the U. of W.; Nancy, and Robert E., both students at East Green Bay high; and his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Minahan. He was a member of B. P. O. No. 259, and of the Green Bay Kiwanis club.

HUNT MURDERERS OF 2 WOMEN IN TEXAS

Robbery or Revenge Considered Possible Motive for Double Slaying

Dallas, Tex.—(AP)—Dual theories of robbery or revenge of jealous suitors confronted police Monday in seeking a solution of the double murder of Mrs. Bessie Lynch, 21, and Mrs. Cleo Lieto, 19, estranged brides, in a lonely broom corn field at the edge of Dallas early Sunday morning.

A man, whose name was not divulged by police was held for questioning, but the authorities indicated he was arrested simply for the information he might be able to give regarding friends of the women. The skulls of both women, whose bodies were found Sunday afternoon by boy scouts hunting peccans, had been crushed by blunt instruments. Mrs. Lieto's throat had been cut. Both women apparently had been dead 10 or 12 hours.

Automobile tracks leading to and away from the bodies indicated the slayers had brought their victims to the isolated spot, and murdered them after a desperate struggle, which the scene indicated.

Rifled purses, empty of everything of value save a check from a candy firm for which both worked, strengthened the theory of robbery. Police believed hijackers may have kidnapped and slain the women after driving their escorts, if any, from the scene. No jewelry was found on either body.

Mrs. Lynch, according to her mother, separated from her husband some time ago, while Mrs. Lieto's husband, also estranged, is in Houston, his wife's former home.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER IS HOPEFUL OF ACQUITTAL

Milwaukee—(AP)—Edward Volkman, absconding teller of the West Side bank, who confessed to the embezzlement of more than $35,000, was to be summoned for a preliminary hearing Monday.

"The trusted employe of 20 years' standing, who stole from the bank to supply the parties and luxuries he could not afford on his salary from his job, expressed confidence that he would win his liberty. His optimism was unexplained, however.

His wife, who knew Volkman was first charged with embezzlement of $18,000 stood by him and declared "there must be some mistake," visited him in his cell Sunday. He greeted friends cheerfully.

Volkman left town Wednesday following a check of his accounts at the bank, but returned from Chicago early Saturday morning and that afternoon was picked up by detectives. He confessed to the theft of twice the amount he was alleged in a warrant to have taken and bank officials have started another thorough check to establish the veracity of his confession.

ELECT CATLIN PROM CHAIRMAN AT U. W.

Son of Attorney and Mrs. Catlin Scores Easy Victory in Election

Madison—By an overwhelming majority John Catlin, son of attorney and Mrs. Mark Catlin, Appleton, was elected 1930 Junior Prom chairman at the University of Wisconsin, in the annual fall election. The vote was one of the largest cast in the history of the state university. Catlin's sole opponent was John Hustings, Mayville, whom he defeated by a vote of 388 to 174.

Catlin, a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity, is a prominent figure on the Wisconsin campus. He graduated from Appleton high school with the class of 1926 and immediately entered the state university.

JUDGES HAVE HARD JOB TO DETERMINE SCIENTIFIC CASES

Jurists Cannot Have Adequate Knowledge on Every Science

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Washington—It's a tough proposition for any judge to undertake consideration of a case which involves technical scientific question of fact rather than of law.

Lawyers and judges cannot very well be deeply learned in all the sciences as well as the law. Yet they are constantly being called upon in patent suits, for instance, to cram up in a matter of weeks or months on most abstruse scientific questions sufficiently to present an argument or to decide an issue of fact as to priority of patent rights between claimants.

STATIC IN COURT

No scientific development of recent times had been more prolific of terminology perplexing to a layman in science than radio. Vast sums of money are involved in patent suits as to radio's evolution and even the distinguished lawyers who compose the United States supreme court cannot escape looking horns at times with problems that involve for them a reasonable degree of understanding of the mysteries of alternating and direct current, regenerative phenomena, heterodyning effect, high and low frequency circuits and all the rest of it.

HUGHES EXPLAINS

It was his role to defeat a patent already granted, which is, no doubt, an advantage. His opponent had displayed before the bench on an easel a "hook-up" chart of a feed-back circuit in contending that the idea had originated not with the present patent holder but with the scientist from whom his clients drew their right. His explanation involved a technical description of just what a feed-back circuit is; what happens within the tube where it is produced and why it is a fundamental element in modern radio reception.

Chief Justice Taft and his colleagues listened with considerable evidence that it was very deep stuff even for them. At one point, counsel was asked from the bench, rather pathetically, if there was not some law question on which the issue could be decided. The lawyer thought not.

When Mr. Hughes arose, he virtually ignored the chart and spoke from notes rather than manuscript. His argument dealt rather with the legal record on the case, which involves about a dozen big volumes of testimony, but whenever he had occasion to touch on radio technicalities he did it in an offhand way, without reference to his notes, that implied he knew exactly what he was talking about.

At one point he volunteered an explanation of "heterodyning effect," the words having occurred in an excerpt of testimony he was reading. He defined it in one sentence without using any of the accepted technical terms of radio. Court attaches glanced about to catch each other's eyes and not smilingly. Evidently they had expected it of Hughes.

Committee Meeting

Members of the traffic division of the chamber of commerce will hold their regular meeting at 7:30 Tuesday evening in the chamber offices. A report on the progress of the traffic study classes will be heard together with one on the readjustment of freight rates on articles to the southwest. Local shippers are interested in the case because they will reduce their freight bills materially.

Deer Hunters Start To Get Ready For Season

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

The season for the legal hunting of deer will soon be open and the devotees of this sport are already busy with preparations for their trips. Reports are coming in of deer being far more plentiful than they have been for a number of years back. The reason for this increase is quite obvious. Nothing but the closing of hunting during the odd years has brought about this result—it would mean much for the restoration of these animals if the season were closed entirely for five or more years, but that is difficult to bring about.

There will no doubt be some victims of carelessness, this coming season as is usually the case, but there is no question but the number of hunters killed will be much less than that of some years back, if any at all are killed. The wearing of red is not the chief reason for lessening the fatalities. It is the education and publicity of a necessity for more care that has been instrumental in reducing the fatalities, for it is a fact that a bright red cap or coat does not always mean that it will be seen in its true light.

There have been cases of the shooting of hunters who were amply decked out with this color. And I know of one case where a hunter who had come up from Chicago with a full equipment of paraphernalia for a successful hunt being shot and killed on the platform of the depot shortly after he had left the train. Whether or not this was a case of mistaking him for a deer or whether someone desired his removal was not known, but the fact remained that he was shot while yet at the depot.

Altho not generally known, many more hunters are killed by shotguns than are by rifles. Statistics prove that, therefore it is quite evident that coloration of wearing apparel will not alone prove to be ample protection from accidents. There is no reason, whatever for the killing of a deer hunter in the woods, unless less it occurs from a stray bullet fired from a high-powered rifle, some of which, if obstructed in their flight, will travel three miles before they spend themselves.

The deer is not by nature a wild animal. It is man that makes him wild. If unmolested, he will remain in close proximity to settlements and to the habitats of man. As proof of this I have recent reports of these animals being quite plentiful in the regions around High Falls and in the plains south of the Peshtigo river, and the reason for this is the closed season which was in force last year.

One of the best natural regions in Wisconsin for hunting them is on the Pottsville river. This country abounds in popple slashings and other covers which the deer prefer. The country around Pembine was at one time considered about the best place in the state but of late years, owing to intensive hunting, the hunters have been forced to carry on their operations farther north because of the scarcity of the game. Now, however, reports have come to me that deer are again plentiful about Pembine. This tends to easily prove that it is closed seasons that are necessary to restore these animals.

Ford Plant Employee Says Sargon Only Medicine He Ever Saw That Does All That Is Claimed For It

"Sargon is the only medicine I have ever found that really does what is claimed for it," said E. W. Bristow, of 554 Robert St., St. Paul, Minn., recently in relating the benefits he had obtained from the medicine. Mr. Bristow is a well known machinist employed at the Ford Motor Co's St. Paul plant.

"Sargon has overcome troubles that have been pulling me down for five years, and I now feel like a man made all over again," continued Mr. Bristow. "I suffered day in and day out from stomach trouble. I had no appetite and what I forced myself to eat nearly always soured on my stomach and caused me to suffer for hours with gas pains and heartburn. My food just seemed to lodge in my throat like a lump of lead. I was badly constipated most of the time."

"I was often troubled by severe pains across the small of my back, and sometimes when I stooped over for something and tried to straighten up again my back felt like it would break in two. My nerves were all shot to pieces and I didn't know what a night's sleep was."

"My tongue was coated, I was bilious and I frequently had severe headaches. I spent hundreds of dollars for medicines, but nothing reached my troubles, and I seemed to be getting worse all the time. I was losing strength and falling off in weight rapidly."

"A friend of mine recommended Sargon to me. I have taken four bottles and the results have been wonderful. I have a fine appetite and eat anything I want. My stomach is in splendid condition, the biliousness, indigestion, heartburn, headaches and other troubles have vanished. I never have pains in my back now. I have more strength and energy than I have had in years. I am no longer nervous and I sleep like a log every night."

"I never in my life have seen Sargon's equal. If I had paid twenty dollars a bottle for Sargon it would have been worth every cent of it. That's just how I feel about Sargon."

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills do their work without griping in the least. They are the best treatment for constipation I have ever found."

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Voigt's Drug Store. adv.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. Panneck, D. C. PALMER CHIROPRACTOR

QUESTION: I am a mother of two children, nine and twelve years old. They are not well. My doctor tells me that it is due to enlarged tonsils and advises removal of them. What is your opinion?—Mrs. W. H.

ANSWER: I, as a doctor of chiropractic, will say that removing tonsils is just as radical in the face of it as removing fingers, ears or nose because they are inflamed or sore.

Dr. James W. Barton, M. D. states, in the Milwaukee Journal, Oct. 23, 1928, "that if you are a parent you must often wonder why tonsils were ever put in children if they have to be removed. Sometimes you have seen an improvement in the health of a youngster after the removal of tonsils. In other cases you have to admit that the youngster was getting along pretty well from a health standpoint until his tonsils were removed. Now what about tonsils anyway? Well, they wouldn't be in the body if they were not meant for some useful purpose. That useful purpose is the filtering of poisons out of the blood. In cases where individuals have no tonsils the poisons are filtered out or removed by other glands."

Dr. F. Pearce Strum says that an enlargement of the tonsils may be an attempt to make a simple organ like the tonsils perform the work of other glands which really should be doing the work but which are not doing it properly. The enlargement of the tonsils occurs when the youngster is being exposed to all sorts of childhood infections. When this period passes the tonsils get smaller again and tend to disappear. You can readily see, then, that to remove normal tonsils or even large tonsils may be taking away from the youngster some of his ability to destroy harmful organisms. If tonsils are protectors, why should they be removed. They should never be removed because they are large.

Now that you have read the above statement of these two medical doctors, which was published in the Milwaukee Journal, Oct. 23, 1928, in regards to tonsils, is exactly what the chiropractic profession has been teaching for the past thirty years. I only wish there were more Drs. Barton and Strum who are willing to leave man as God created him.

In chiropractic you will find the solution to the above question. Chiropractic adjustment brings normal function to abnormal organs. I would advise you to place your children under the care of a competent chiropractor.

A TRANSCONTINENTAL HIGHWAY

A great highway of new type, sponsored by Senator du Pont of Delaware, to be placed before congress next winter, invites attention. This would be a transcontinental "super-highway" really worthy of the name. The roadway would be 100 feet wide, divided into four traffic lanes, one each way for fast traffic and one for trucks and other slow traffic. The government would acquire for the purpose a right of way from coast to coast, 500 feet wide.

The 200-foot strips on the sides would be used, according to the senator's notion, as real estate investments, to be sold or leased for business purposes, thus reimbursing the government for the cost of the undertaking. Experience shows, he says, that business nowadays seeks good roads. Wherever a good highway is constructed, filling stations, lunch rooms, restaurants, hotels and stores spring up along the route. This plan will doubtless appeal to great numbers of people, because of the wide-spread demands for good roads and the increase of national touring.

One appealing fact about such a highway is that its builders should be able to ignore local business considerations, and make a fairly straight road over long stretches of country between really important points, instead of following the old, crooked routes, turning often out of their way to connect with the insignificant villages and towns. The ancient Romans, the greatest road-builders of any former age, built truly national roads by laying out strategic routes on the map and building them straight along, over plain, river and mountain, almost regardless of population or geography. Possibly the time has come when America can do likewise.

It is to be hoped, however, that those 200-foot strips along the roadside would be kept mainly as park land, instead of being all cluttered up with hot dog stands, gas stations, billboards and rubbish. A tourist driving all day on a long, wide, smooth road isn't entirely content with locomotion. He wants something pleasant to look at and congenial places for campaign.

OUR AMERICAN MONARCHISTS

Much has been written about the monarchist movement in Germany. Let us pay a moment's attention to our own Monarchists who want to establish their favorite form of government in the United States held a meeting the other day in the city hall auditorium in Dallas, Tex. They announced that "the time has come to begin active propaganda for the conversion, by orderly processes, of the United States government into a monarchy." The meeting was called by a citizen named Richard Potts, who boasts the title of Secretary-General of the Royalist League of America.

Now, maybe this is a practical joke. Maybe Potts and his crew, if any, are crazy. In any event, it does not look like anything to get excited about. The idea of monarchy in the United States, after a century and a half of democracy, is unexpected but not immediately alarming. It is reassuring to find that the royal Mr. Potts proposes to bring about this counter-revolutionary change "by orderly processes" rather than violence.

He has a perfect right to do that, if he can muster the votes. Not only has the constitution given him that opportunity in providing a legal process for constitutional amendment, but it has guaranteed him freedom of speech, press and assembly in the orderly pursuit of his purpose. The only danger is that some policeman who has never read the constitution is likely to take such entertaining innovation seriously and lock them up.

AMERICAN CRIMINAL TRIAL

Says Newton D. Baker, a leading American lawyer: "Probably the greatest difficulty about the whole problem of crime has been our unwillingness to give our judges real power in criminal trials. We make them arbitrators of sparring matches between lawyers, instead of real representatives of the dignities and rights of the state."

This is not so in England. There the trial judge really conducts the case, and when the lawyers scrap over the rules of evidence or interfere unduly with the full and clear presentation of testimony, the judge brushes them aside and questions the witnesses himself.

Our criminal trials are lawyers' battles over legal technicalities and procedure. British criminal trials are efforts to discover the truth, and if the hired legal representatives of the defendants do not help in that process, they are at least restrained from interfering with it. No doubt this has much to do with the fact that there is less crime and more regard for law in England than in present-day America.

It will be hard, however, to persuade the legal profession and the public to confer more power on American judges until they make more use of the authority they already possess. It is the tolerance of our bench as much as the aggression of our bar that has built up this system of mischievous custom and precedent which so often thwarts justice. Judges know what is wrong. Let them assert themselves more, and "to him that hath shall be given."

ARMISTICE DAY

There is to be a novel feature this year in the celebration of Armistice Day. The League of Remembrance has planned a belt of silence circling the world.

Invitations have been sent out to the "heads of all countries within the latitudes of 30 degrees and 45 degrees"—which takes in most of the civilized nations, yet seems a needless limitation. These countries are asked to suspend all traffic and business activity for two minutes, starting at 11 a. m. on Nov. 11, the time when the Armistice agreement was signed and the fighting ended. Thus there will be, hour by hour for 24 hours, a process of reverential and prayerful pauses reaching around the earth.

It is a noble suggestion, deserving universal observance. It will be good for the people of belligerent nations, and all others, to be silent and thoughtful for two minutes. And there will be no rule against continuing the silence and thoughtfulness longer than that.

ZEPPELINS AS MAIL CARRIERS

Dr. Hugo Eckener, the Zeppelin man, seeking American capital for a trans-Atlantic air line—and doubtless getting it—says he intends to carry mail rather than passengers. Human freight will be accepted, but only in very limited quantities. The airships will load with mail to their capacity. Mail, he figures, is more profitable. He says he can make more carrying letters at 50¢ apiece than carrying passengers at $3,000 apiece.

That isn't merely a question of weight. Mail makes less demands on the carrier. You can't toss passengers into a bag or box and lock them up for the trip. They demand air, heat, space to get about, windows to look out of, foods, beds and other creature comforts. And if the weather gets rough, they probably holler and bother the skipper with excited inquiries. Letters are much more controllable.

POST-TONIC

The Remedy is Worse Than the Malady

Dear Tonic: Have you a little snow shovled in your home?

—Harold the Seer.

Dear Mr. Post Tonic: I saw a headline in the newspaper the other night. It said Farmers Told Hoover Will Relieve Them. What I'd like to know is—relieve them of what?

—Dinah the Democrat.

BOLD AND BAD

First Clerk: "Thing of your girl and lend me a five spot."

Second Clerk: "Why think of her?"

"Because I'm taking her out."

WELL, ISN'T THAT TRUE?

Dear Tonic: Marge, the Seck, pulled this one at the courthouse the other day.

"If Al Smith loses this election it'll be because of one thing."

"Religion?" I ventured.

"Nope, because he didn't get enough votes!"

—Harold the Seer.

"CUMMY," WHO OFTEN watches the news come in over the printer, read Friday morning where Al Smith said "there's something in the air," which can only mean a Democratic victory. Cummy said he thought there's snow in the air, but that he wasn't sure that Herb would be the man who'd be snowed under. I was lead to believe that Cummy isn't a Democrat, but you never can tell. I'm sure, though, that he isn't one of those silent voters you read so much about these days.

—Galahad Jiltme.

Another thing that is surprising is the rapidity with which the political world changes. Now, about ten years ago there wasn't a political speech that was up to snuff unless it had the word "huh" in it. What's become of that old word, anyway?

—Rudolph of the Bayou.

"Jimmie," said the teacher, "what is your greatest ambition?"

Jimmie considered thoughtfully.

"I think," he replied, "it is to wash mother's ears."

"Mama and papa think we ought to wait at least a month before getting married."

"Aw, I hate these long engagements."

"So do I—but we have to give them time enough to find a larger apartment."

Visitor: "Did you have any difficulty in choosing a name for baby?"

Fond Mother: "Not the slightest. You see, dear, we've only one rich relative."

"I shall never marry," Reginald declared, "until I meet a woman who is my direct opposite."

"Well, Reggie," said Mable, "there are a number of intelligent girls in this neighborhood."

GRADE-100 PER CENT

Raymond had just begun to go to school. One morning his teacher was trying to impress upon her pupils the idea of self-reliance. It so happened that a certain small boy had been late on that particular morning. His excuse was that his mother had overslept, forgotten to call him, and breakfast was late. Hence the lecture on self-reliance.

"You have fathers and mothers to work for you now," concluded the teacher, "but what will you do after you're grown up? Who will work for you then?"

Raymond's hand shot up.

"Our wives, of course," he replied.

ASK "THE FLAPPER"

"It is high time," said the reformer, "that we had a moral awakening. Let us give our loins. Let us take off our coats. Let us bare our arms. Let us—"

"Hold on, now!" exclaimed a tall, thin woman near the platform. "If this is to be a moral awakening, don't you dare take off another thing!"

A STUDENT'S HEALTH DAY

TODAY, BOYS AND GIRLS—AND EVERYBODY—IS HEALTH DAY. The healthiest boy or girl in school follows some such schedule as this I have made from a composite of the reports of nine prize-winners:

7:30 A. M. Out of bed. Five minutes setting-up exercise. Bath. Dress.

7:50 A. M. Breakfast—always some kind of fresh fruit, if in season, otherwise some stewed or canned fruit. Either a cereal, with milk and sugar, or any kind of bread. A pint of fresh milk, preferably certified milk. No tea or coffee; if one does not like pure milk, the milk may be flavored with cocoa or with cereal. Some healthy boys and girls eat meat or eggs at breakfast; others do not.

8:15 A. M. Answer nature's call.

8:30 A. M. Walk to school, in any weather.

8:30 A. M. Pass the medical inspector, or at least the health sentinel, who detains all suspicious characters, such as a student with a cough.

9:00 A. M. School session begins—room temperature never above 63 degrees F.

10:30 A. M. Ten minutes' recess. Before resuming class or study, always wash the hands.

Wash your hands — it's time to eat.

12 M. Lunch—any kind of hot soup with bread or cracker, or any kind of sandwich with relish or salad any kind of fruit in season, otherwise a sweet. Milk if one wants it.

1:30 P. M. Afternoon session begins. Always wash the hands before returning to class.

2:30 P. M. Gymnasium, swimming, posture exercise, corrective exercise, athletic training. (One hour daily devoted to physical and health education.)

3:00 P. M. Afternoon recess. Try to keep five feet or more away from any one who pretends to have a slight "cold".

3:10 P. M. Wash your hands before you return to classroom.

4:00 P. M. All out—no exceptions. Walk home.

5:00 P. M. Music lesson or other outside study.

6:00 P. M. Prepare for dinner—at least wash your hands.

6:30 P. M. Eat as wide a variety of things as the table affords. Take time to chew all vegetable and cereal items well. Liquids must not be used to wash down solid morsels. Eat when you eat and drink when you drink, and don't try to mix these functions. Everybody happy at table. Keep your quarrels and complaints for another time and place.

7:30 P. M. Recreation.

10 P. M. Lights out. All in. Always in bed.

Nothing in this compact schedule about brushing the teeth, but there is no objection to that if one wishes to do it.

Nothing in it about "home work," that is, study of assigned lessons at home. That is an unfair encroachment on the time the normal boy or girl should devote to wholesome recreation.

The hands are washed repeatedly in this schedule. That is essential for the prevention of disease from contamination of the hands. The morning bathing is not essential, from the health viewpoint. Still it you can take a shower or even a sponge bath in the morning, and like it, it is probably beneficial to health, that is, if it is cool or cold.

The healthy boy or girl, it seems, makes it a rule to walk as much as time permits. No promise or picture in a magazine will give any one a better complexion than this habit or hobby of boofing it several miles a day regardless of weather.

These observations are based on the assurance and the health re-

In the vicinity of Butte, Montana, it is the customary practice for many of the best cattle ranchers to make use of the National Forest ranges during the summer months, and many of these operators make use of the available public domain in their vicinity during the early spring months before turning their cattle onto the National Forest ranges.

Q. What coined the slogan, "Say it with flowers"? A. H. B.

A. The late N. P. Lindbergh, of Rugby, North Dakota, was credited with the coining of the phrase, "Say it with flowers." It is merely a slogan calling attention to the fact that flowers are an appropriate gift on all occasions.

Q. How many bushels of wheat have been raised on one acre? F. C.

A. The Bureau of Crop Estimates says that the largest yield of which it has record is 117.2 bushels. It was produced in 1895 in Island County, Washington. The average harvest was 18 and the yield 117.2 per acre. The field was measured and the wheat weighed. Probably a bushel per acre was lost in threshing, due to the inability of the threshing machine to produce the best results in such heavy grain.

Q. What song was sung at the time of the Spanish War with the same popularity as Over There during the World War? S. A. C.

A. A Hot Time in the Old Town was the tune indelibly associated with the Spanish War, for which it served very much as Over There and The Long, Long Trail did for the World War.

Q. How long has the source of the Nile been known? R. A. L.

A. Since remote antiquity, the Nile has been famous for its civilizations developed on its banks. Its source, however, remained a mystery until recent times. In 1858 Lake Victoria was discovered by Speke and in 1864 Lake Albert was found by Baker.

Q. Are wooden-soled shoes worn by men when breaking up coke around refineries? H. R. T.

A. The Bureau of Mines says that wooden-soled shoes are worn by certain workmen at refineries when breaking up the coke which has been deposited in the stills. There remains considerable heat in the stills and because of this the workers wear wooden-soled shoes and other protective devices.

Q. When was the first school opened in Alaska? M. E.

A. The first known school in Alaska was opened at Three Saints, Kodiak Island, 1785, by Shelikoff, a Russian trader, to afford religious and secular training. All schools are now under the Bureau of Education.

Q. Is there a difference between a disinfectant and an antiseptic? H. V.

A. A disinfectant differs from an antiseptic in that it is not supposed to come in actual contact with a living person.

Q. Which can fly faster, a monoplane or a biplane? R. M. C.

A. Generally speaking a monoplane is capable of greater speed than the biplane.

Miss Tutton Gives Talk To A.A.U.W.

THERE is a decided contrast between student life in an American university and in a European university, Miss Ellen Tutton told about 50 members of the American Association of University Women Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Ruth Sweeney, 414 N. Union-st. Miss Tutton, who studied in France, Germany, and England last year, confined her talk to her experience at the University of Paris.

In the French university the responsibility rests entirely upon the student, the speaker declared, while in America everything is done for the student, and parents and professors assist the student in every possible way. The result of the French student being entirely on "his own" is a more serious attitude toward his college life and work. While college education is taken as a matter of course in America, in France it is not the accepted thing and is regarded as a privilege.

At the business session of the association five alternate delegates were elected to the state convention on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16 and 17 at Oshkosh. They are Mrs. George Nixon, Mrs. Kenneth Corbett, Mrs. George Wood, Mrs. Rex Wells and Miss Elsie Koppila. Plans were begun for a Christmas party, at which children under ten of members of the organizations will be guests. The party will be held Dec. 8 at Appleton Woman's club.

Assistant hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. J. L. Johns, Miss Mable Buel, Miss Ethel Carls, Miss Jean Jackson and Mrs. L. C. Sipeper.

MULLENIX TALKS ON RELIGION AND SCIENCE TO CLUB

Is There a Conflict between Science and Religion was the subject of an address by Dr. Rollin C. Mullenix at the regular meeting of the Men's Sunday Morning club of the Congregational church Sunday. About 40 men attended the meeting.

Dr. Mullenix pointed out that ever since the dawn of human thought there has been some sort of a conflict between science and superstition, theology and religion, but said that there could be no dogmatic answer to the question. "The scientist," he said, must have a great deal of faith and the theologian must have science or fact as a basis for his belief.

The speaker drew his facts from geology, biology, chemistry, physics and other natural sciences and stated that the development of scientific thought, especially in the last 50 years, has caused much disturbance in the minds of many people.

After the speech the question was informally discussed by members of the group.

The Sunday school campaign committee reported that 25 people have volunteered to teach Sunday school classes, and that more than $4,000 had been pledged toward the employment of a Sunday school director and the purchase of new equipment.

NATION AWAITING ELECTION RESULTS

It is universally conceded, however, that to a degree the turn-over in both directions have been country-wide, with the deflection of Republican wets to Smith greatest in such eastern states as New York, Massachusetts, Maryland, Connecticut and Rhode Island, in the larger cities everywhere, and in scattered western states like Wisconsin, Montana and Nevada; while the deflection of Democratic drys to Hoover has reached its maximum in the south and has been apparent also in many states of both east and west.

TARIFF AND PROSPERITY

From the beginning, Republican orators have made the tariff and "Coolidge prosperity" a keystone of their campaign. They have said the business man, big and little, that a Democratic victory would upset industrial stability. The tariff has been invoked as a bulwark for the western farmer and rancher, and a guarantee of steady employment for the eastern factory worker.

On the other side, the bid of Governor Smith and chairman Raskob for the unanimous confidence of the business world has been one of the striking features of the campaign. Business, agriculture and labor have been told that under the Democratic tariff plank of 1928, and the policies of the nominee, nothing need be feared from a Democratic administration.

FARM RELIEF

Although submerged in most sections of the country, the farm problem has received constant attention in most of the northern states between the Alleghenies and the Rockies.

Senator Norris and the group of farm leaders who have spent around a half million dollars in a farm relief radio crusade have concentrated largely on Iowa, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. It is agreed that in all of these states Governor Smith's espousal of a surplus regulation paid for by the crop benefited has collided directly with the prohibition and religious issues. Most of the McNary-Haugen farmers of these states are not only normally Republicans, but are dry as well, and many of them are anti-Catholic. There is a wide difference of opinion as to the relative potency of these several issues.

WATERPOWER

The debate over waterpower has run to the length of many thousands of words, and has produced some confusing ramifications. Governor Smith has accused the Republicans of favoring the sort of private exploitation desired by the "power trust," and Mr. Hoover has applied the accusation of state socialism to the Democratic power theories.

The geographical focus of the issue is varied. It has been urged in New York and other states having local power problems; in California and the mountain states interested in Boulder dam; in Tennessee, Alabama and other states directly concerned about Muscle Shoals. Senator Norris placed his deflection to Smith on the basis of the power issue, but the politicians generally do not agree whether that issue will change many votes.

IMMIGRATION

A several-pronged attack on Governor Smith's immigration utterances has provoked nation-wide controversy.

Among the German and Scandinavian colonies, particularly in the west and northwest, the Republicans have argued that Smith's views of the "national" clause of the immigration law would work to the special cial advantage of the nationalities of southern Europe.

In the south, with its small infiltration of immigrant blood, the Anti-Smith Democrats declare the nominee has bolted the party on this issue, and favors a material relaxation of immigration barriers.

OTHER ISSUES

Many other issues, some of them nation-wide in their application, have had their places in the campaign budget, and remain among the unknown quantities in the election day balance. Smith's affiliation with Tammany hall has been debated everywhere, and most heatedly in the south; charges that Hoover once sought to become a British subject have been made and denied; the Republican claim of economy in government has been attacked and defended; flood control, Waterways reorganization of the federal government and a host of other topics have claimed sporadic attention.

MORE SETTLERS COMING TO STATE THIS YEAR

Madison —(AP)— While the state immigration department has no way of checking on how many of the persons who write for information on "Wisconsin" ever actually come to the state, it has the monthly reports of one railroad that brings settlers.

Oscar Gunderson, head of the department, today said that the railroad, one of the several selling lands in Wisconsin which they own, reported 105 actual settlers for the first nine months of 1928.

"This is not a large number, but its considerable better than for the last two or three years," he said. "Slow recovery and improvement will do more than a sudden boom."

COSTLY ART COLLECTION STORED IN BASEMENT

Galesburg, Ill.—(AP)— A $50,000 art collection, homeless since the Elks club eliminated the insurance on it to reduce expenses, is stored in a Galesburg basement, unwanted.

The paintings belong to George S. Dole, son of James H. Dole, former millionaire grain dealer of Chicago and a vice president of the Chicago Art Institute. George S. Dole inherited the collection.

The paintings were loaned to the Elks club here in 1914 and Dole was voted a life membership. When the building was redecorated this year the canvases were turned back to Dole. None of the Galesburg public institutions would accept the art treasures so they were packed and stored.

The largest and most valuable canvas in the collection is a fishing scene by Frank Boggs. It was painted in 1855 and was shown at the Columbian exposition in 1893. Anna C. Shaw, first woman admitted to the art institute, is represented by a landscape painting, J. Francis Murphy, landscape painting.

er, and Walter Shirlaw, painter and designer, are among the other artists.

CONSTRUCTION WORK IS STARTED ON STORE

Construction work was started Monday morning on the Universal store at 503 W. College-ave. The main floor is to be lowered three feet to the level of the street. An addition also is to be constructed at the rear of the building and will extend to the alley on W. Washington-st. The interior is to be redecorated.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

By Anne Austin

"Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Reeves are easiest of all to analyze," Tony began in that cynical new voice of hers, which hurt Crystal vaguely. "Mrs. Reeves isn't pretty, never was pretty, even when she was a young girl. But she has brains and breeding. I imagine she married Dudley Reeves because he was the only man who asked her and because he had money enough, even when he was a young man, to give her leisure for cultivating her mind."

"Of course Dudley Reeves is an awful vulgarian," Crystal conceded. "He's the original George F. Babbitt. I suppose he does nearly drive her wild with his bad grammar and his awful kidding and his bellowing laugh. But he's a good man—his children are crazy about him."

"Oh—good!" Tony dismissed the amendment scornfully. "That makes her hate him worse, of course. If he were bad, she could hate him without hating herself, if you get me. But think of her side of it, for a minute: she's been mutely apologizing for him every day since they married, and trying to change him. Of course she shouldn't have tried to make a highbrow of him, should have cut loose from her family and her 'literary' friends, but she couldn't. But come along! Let's go feed the poor creatures."

Fortunately the guests had by no means lost their appetites. All of the women, except Miss Dupont, who was too clever to call attention to her slim body except seductively, did laugh ruefully and talk loudly of their reducing diets. But they ate, and Peg was happier than she had been all evening.

"Peg's the only one except Mam'selle who seems to be off her feed," Tony observed in the kitchen later. "Mam'selle's appetite isn't good this evening either. We have been pretty healthful toward her, Cry—but I guess we will have to go through with it. I don't think she's quite so sure enough yet, so on goes the finishing touch."

Annabel picked up her chocolate-colored ears. "You gals talk 'bout 'at 'wee-wee' lady wid de brass-colored hair and de 'come hvar, boys' eyes?"

"Exactly, but I'll cut out your gizzard if you tell on us, Annabel," Tony replied cheerfully.

"All I got to say," Annabel grinned wickedly, "is—mix a little this hvar 'Rough on Rats' in her handkerchief. I don't lak dat 'wee-wee' lady. Woman like dat make a fool outen any man."

"Exactly," Tony agreed again. "Come along, Cry. They're moved out onto the terrace by now. Pat'll be showing the roses to Mam'selle, or I'm a bum clairvoyant."

Sure enough, she and Crystal found Pat and his expert charmer moving leisurely but determinedly toward the red rambling rose trellis and Tony's voice sounded very young and sweet and considerate as she called out:

"Oh, Mam'selle! I brought a shawl of Peg's for you. The dew's so heavy and the breeze is getting awfully cool. I remember how susceptible you are to head colds."

NEXT: The reckoning.

Household Hints

EGG SUBSTITUTE
When making cakes and puddings, remember that a tablespoon of gelatine dissolved in a little hot milk is an excellent substitute for three eggs.

HARD ON HEELS
If you wear your silk hosiery out in the heels and toes first, try rubbing the feet of new hosiery with paraffin. The paraffin should be rubbed in until a white appearance is seen.

SWEET DISH-CLOTHS
It is an excellent plan to keep two dish cloths going. By alternating and hanging the unused one on the line each day, both can be kept sweet.

SAVING CARPET
If you buy your stair carpet three-quarters of a yard longer than needed, you can move it up and down a little every now and then, and prolong its life tremendously.

Peplums, Tiers, Trains, Or Flounces Accentuate Princess Lines Of Mode

The rose-red taffeta, left, wears its little peplum to stand out pertly and adds a front row for adornment. Flat roses make a new thing of the old-fashioned bustle on the pompadour flowered taffeta, (center). Diagonal lines are followed in the way the uneven tiers are posed on the black satin dinner gown at the right.

BY HENRI BENDEL

NEW YORK—The first principle of the successful evening gown is to have its elegance built around the modern princess theme.

Not that one sees many simple princess silhouettes. But the outstanding feature of the present mode for formal occasions is the slightly molded line that accentuates slowness, at least down to or about the hips.

From the hips, one's gown may trail into a long train, develop minaret tiers, effect a peplum or some skillful drape or golet effects. It may have a decidedly uneven hem and great movement and fullness in its width. But its basic feature is the straight body feeling.

AVOIDS BULGES
Irregularity is controlled and skillful on this winter's evening gowns. Instead of puffs and drapes that make for bulk, there are intricate cuttings, pleatings, incrustations, overlapping panels, and fitted tiers that hew to a sleek silhouette. Elegance, finish and formality is the new order.

No one material is preferable to all others for new evening gowns. Velvet, lame, lace, satin, stiff taffeta, brocade, satin broche, tulle, chiffons and fancy fabrics all are used. If prints are preferred the pattern should be subservient to the color, and almost invisible patterns add a rich elegance that a dashing, obvious print never achieves.

The peplum gown is new this autumn and most charmingly interpreted in a tulle taffeta in the new rose-red, a clear, light rosy shade that has the enhancing quality of pink, and the stimulating beauty of red.

FULL BUT NOT BOUFFANT
This gown has such elegance in its material that it takes no trim beyond a charming little yoke of pink chiffon and the pert, chic little peplum which is wired to stand out beyond the skirt's fullness.

The cut of this full skirt is such as to give ample fullness but yet have no suggestion of a bouffant. Its irregular, swooping hemline is especially good for such rich material that falls in exceptionally graceful lines. A little bow of self material marks the center front of the peplum.

Pompadour taffeta is perfect, with its elegance and gentle, firm character, for the revival of the bustle of the '80's. Louisboulanger uses rose and black pompadour taffeta for her "bustle gown" which has a straight, severe front and then gathers into a bustle effect with a train in the rear.

This return of the train is indicative of the formality of this winter's modes. For with trains sweeping the floor, what woman could be other than dignified, formal, elegant?

This taffeta frock does not, however, follow the protruding bustle fashions of another day. In line with the tendency to keep things as sleek and flat as possible, this bustle has its fullness flattened into rosettes, which make for a new silhouette.

The black dinner gown is almost a necessity these days. I show one by Augusta. Bernard which has several new points of note.

It has a circular flounce, posed on the straight line silhouette in a skillful manner to achieve a diagonal line both front and back, short sides and a dipping front and back.

The bodice has an irregular neckline that follows the diagonal line of the skirt and both the front and the rear of the bodice are cut with a diagonal line marked across them. This is a perfect example of how the truly smart gowns this winter stick to the princess foundation.

The only ornamentation on this cleverly cut gown is a diamond and ebony brooch, of extreme elegance and beauty.

DINNER—Boned and stuffed shoulder of lamb, currant jelly, creamed Jerusalem artichokes, grape fruit salad, old-fashioned doughnuts, cider, milk.

OLD-FASHIONED DOUGHNUTS
Two cakes compressed yeast, 1 cup milk, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 eggs, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 5 tablespoons melted butter, 4 cups flour (about).

Sift milk and sugar to lukewarm temperature. Add compressed yeast cakes and stir until dissolved. Add 1 1/4 cups sifted flour and beat mixture until smooth. Cover and place in a warm place until puffed up and bubbly. It will take about an hour for the sponge to rise. Mix and sift 2 cups flour with sugar, salt and nutmeg. Add eggs well beaten to sponge and then stir in dry ingredients and melted butter. Slowly add more flour until dough is stiff enough to knead. Knead the dough until smooth and elastic. Cover and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. This will take not more than three hours. Turn onto a floured board and pat the dough into a sheet about 3/4 inch thick. Cut with a small round biscuit cutter. Let stand on board closely covered until double in bulk. Drop into deep hot fat and fry until delicately brown. Drain from fat, dredge with sugar and let stand until cool before storing in cellophane or tin box.

The fat should be hot enough to delicately brown an inch cube of bread from the soft part of the loaf in sixty seconds.

FRUIT STAINS
If your fingers are fruit-stained, soap your hands thoroughly before you let water touch them. Wetting them first sets the stains.

SET APART TIME EACH DAY FOR A CHILD'S OWN

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Every child should have a certain amount of privacy—of room, time and ownership.

In a house where there is more than one child it is not possible, often, to give each a room to himself. Yet we often see homes with two or three children in one room so that the family can have a guest-chamber that lies idle almost from one year's end to the other.

Too often it is the biggest, sunniest room in the house.

Babies and young children, according to the time-honored custom, are persistently regarded as "extras" in the family budgeting of space and often are given an odd bed in some corner of a room occupied by other people. As they get older the thought of room space is given more consideration. It should be reversed, however. No one in the family needs a room to himself so much as the baby. This, of course, is for reasons of health.

Every child adores his own room. It is something for him to live up to. It increases his self-respect and gives him that static feeling that psychologists tell us is necessary as a foundation on which to build other desirable character traits.

Lacking space for that, a wise mother will divide a room, giving each little occupant certain pieces of furniture for his own. No matter how small he is he should have certain drawers or an entire bureau or chest that absolutely belong to him, his own bed if possible and a specific portion of closet space.

I also should give every growing boy and girl in the house what might be called "privacy of time." That is, a certain part of every day, be it only an hour, to read or walk or play without interference from others. He needs it. We all need a few minutes to ourselves now and then—for our own soul's sake, we might say.

Then there is privacy of ownership. What pride a child takes in his own things! Teach him to lend and to be unselfish, but I never believed much in half-interest toys. All children cherish their own possessions. If things are their very own they will learn to take care of them much more quickly than if there is joint ownership with other children.

It all comes to this: children have rights that should be respected.

BOY KING TO GO TO PRIVATE PUBLIC SCHOOL

The educational plan which Princess Helen, mother of King Michael of Rumania, has worked out for her small son proves again that being of the blood royal does not necessarily prohibit brains, our democratic idea to the contrary.

Princess Helen knew that her king son must start to school. She frowned upon private tutoring, the obvious and traditional way in which a king is educated. The public school seemed better to her but not feasible, from the viewpoint of safety.

Therefore Princess Helen has created her own "public private school" for the exclusive use of her small son. Every province of Rumania will send one child to this school. All professions and trades will be represented in the province selections. The princess wishes the little king to know the children of tradesmen and judges, of farmers and laborers. These will be children of all religions and children of different nationalities. And the princess insists that the king pupil must have no special favors and be treated just like any of them. If she is able to find teachers who will do that thing, she is very wise, indeed. Can you imagine anything more democratic, even for the son of a president?

ALL YOUNGSTERS NEED CEREALS

Sugar as a flavor makes these healthful foods enjoyable

Growing bones and teeth require the health-giving minerals and vitamins that are freely found in grain cereals and breakfast foods. Grains are nature's foods and they supply elements necessary to growth and nutrition. They are excellent in connection with milk, but it is sometimes hard to get children to eat them?

A judicious and reasonable amount of sugar added to these foods will work wonders in making them palatable, tasteful and enjoyable. No ingredient adds so much to the taste appeal of other foods. Sugar adds to the enjoyment of all kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables, so valuable in the diet of growing children. Use sugar as a condiment in making healthful foods acceptable to the palate. Sweetness, as the perfect flavor in foods, stimulates the flow of saliva and of gastric juice, thereby aiding digestion, as well as enjoyment.

Medical authorities warn parents to guard the nutrition of their children. See that your children eat regularly of varied, nutritious foods—thereby being safeguarded against such diseases as tuberculosis. Far better that your child be slightly overweight for its height and age than a single pound underweight. Sound nutrition is absolutely necessary to health and proper development. Health Officers Condemn Overheated Homes

In a widely published survey by The Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, health officers of 225 cities state that in their opinion, overheating of living quarters and frequent colds make one susceptible to pneumonia and tuberculosis. This statement gives a still more serious aspect to the discovery of Dr. C.E. A.
